Goodman held in robbery

SUMMERSVILLE, Tenn. — A Parma, Mo. man, Herbert Goodman, 47, is being held in the Fayette County jail for robbery and kidnaping after abducting a Moscow woman and robbing her husband of $70 Thursday night.

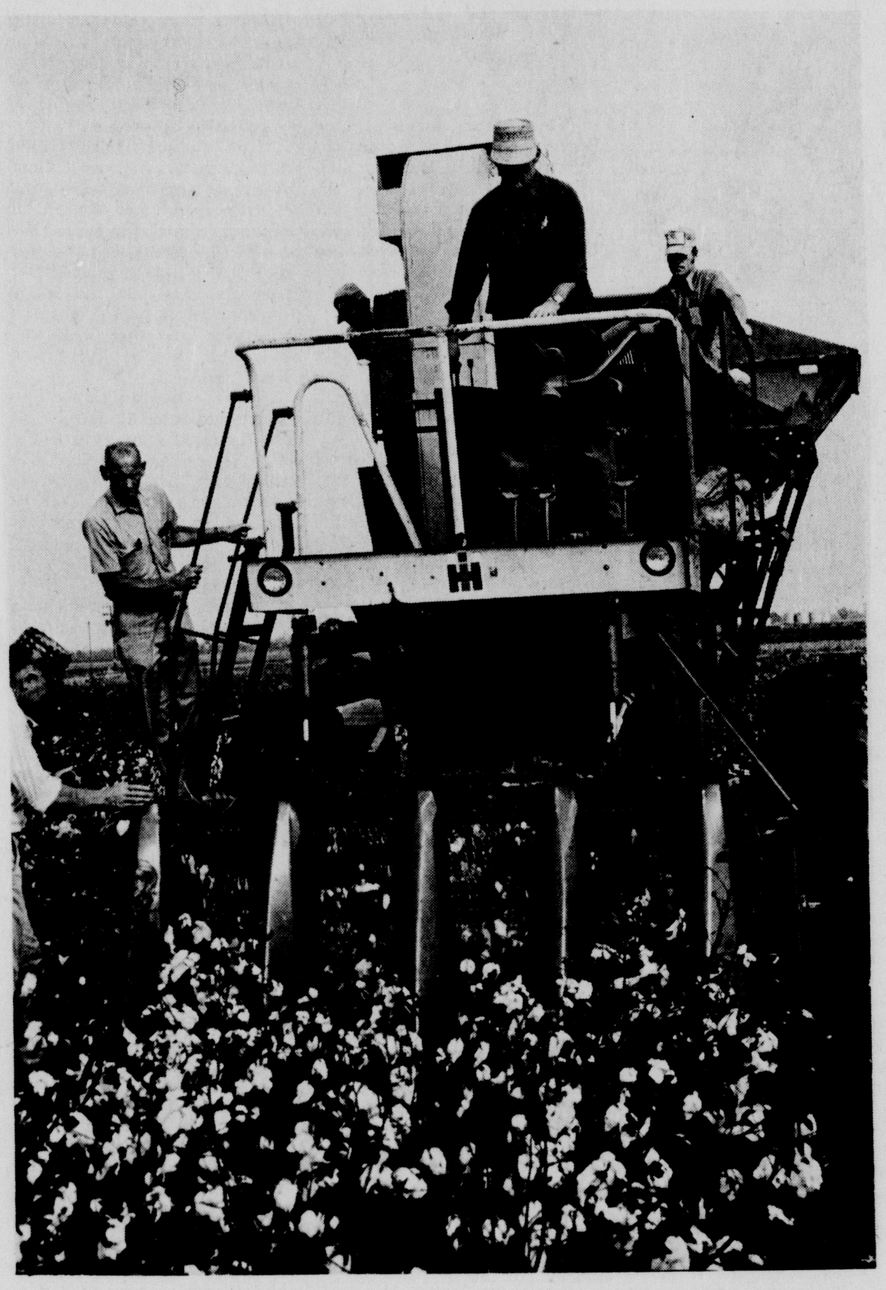

Goodman was arrested by Shelby County authorities and turned over to the Fayette sheriff's department after being apprehended when stopped by a roadblock.

The former Missouri State Penitentiary inmate, suspected of recent armed robberies in the Misssouri Bootheel, reportedly was released in October from the Jefferson City maximum security institution after serving seven years of a 10-year sentence from Dunklin County for armed robbery.

Confiscated upon his arrest was a 22-caliber pistol, reportedly stolen in Nebraska in 1971. Authorities said the gun had five shells in it and one empty cartridge.

Fayette County authorities said Goodman robbed Elwood Simmons of $70 and abducted his wife as a hostage around 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Bond has been set at $50,000, and trial was scheduled on Nov. 25 after a preliminary hearing today.

Cotton harvester tested

This 20-inch-row cotton harvester is part of the new cotton culture being tested by scientists at the University of Missouri's Delta Center in Portageville. Watching workmen put it through its paces are William Sappenfield, cotton breeder, and Bill Boon, assistant superintendent, at the center. Boon, far right, who built the brush harvester, says the machine worked very well. Now all he needs is more 20-inch-row cotton to harvest, he says. Sappenfield is testing new varieties and cultural practices aimed at producing a short, coarse fiber crop that would be harvested ahead of the normal crop.

Special session begins today

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Charged with trying to rejuvenate Missouri's sagging home market and providing some emergency funds for welfare, Missouri lawmakers returned to the Capitol today for a special legislative session.

The session was to open at 2 p.m.

Unless it concludes in a few weeks, legislators will find themselves spending most of the next seven months in Jefferson City.

Among the legislators working in the special session will be seven senators and 33 representatives who won't be back after Jan. 8 because they lost or resigned.

The special session must end at noon Jan. 8, when the new legislature takes over for a 5½-month session. Added work will come next month when some of the expected 1,300 bills will be introduced for the regular session.

The Division of Family services needs $25.9 million in appropriations to see it through the end of the fiscal year.

The session begins as reports from Washington show permits for housing starts throughout the nation in October were at their lowest since December of 1966. High interest rates were blamed, but in Missouri, the slump has been blamed on the restriction against charging interest above 8 per cent annually. No state has a lower rate.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond has said residential construction has fallen sharply in the first eight months of this year and construction unemployment is three times the general unemployment rate.

Bond can add anything at any time to the special session call, and two possibilities are financing of the new campaign spending law and revision of the majority rights law that was declared unconstitutional last week by the State Supreme Court because it did not follow constitutional provisions and amend each of the 100 or more sections stating an age—usually 21—as a qualifying factor.

The majority rights law lowered the age of majority to 18 except laws dealing with alcoholic beverages. The Supreme Court decision did not affect the right of 18-year-olds to vote.

Also facing the State Senate will be confirmation of about 100 appointments Bond made under reorganization of state government. The appointees must be confirmed before the Jan. 8 adjournment of the special session or they can't retain their offices.

A combination of factors caused the Division of Family Services to run out of money for state supplemental payments to the aged, blind and disabled under a new federal program. The division will be $1.9 million short of the money needed to make December payments.

Some legislators have disagreed with an attorney general's opinion saying funds cannot be transferred from a Medicaid program where there is a surplus.

At least two usury bills are ready for introduction. Committee sessions are expected to be held Wednesday and Thursday. The Senate plans to begin debate on a bill next Monday.

One bill, drafted in part by Alfred Sikes, director of the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, will be introduced by the House minority leader, Republican Robert Snyder of Kirkwood.

It removes the 8 per cent limit, and sets no limit, on first mortage real estate loans, loans to a corporation, business loans of $5,000 or more, and loans by redevelopment agencies.

All other loans between $500 and $5,000 would carry a 10 per cent interest ceiling.

It classifies a mobile home for a first deed of trust, or mortgage, without any interest ceiling. It says lending institutions must pay 3 per cent on money held in escrow, and allows only one "point" to be charged by the lender if the lender pays for repair or improvements before the home is sold.

The bill allows higher points if they are required by federal agencies which would secure the mortgage, such as the Farmers Home Administration.

Lenders are charging up to 15 points in the St. Louis area, Sikes said. A point is 1 per cent of the loan and is charged against the seller.

The bill also requires Sikes' department to compile reports to apprise legislators of the availability and cost of residen-

Bond set at $50,000 for Boley

Dwain Boley, 47, of Morley was arraigned today during Magistrate Court proceedings in the Sikeston city courtroom on a charge of first-degree murder stemming from the early morning shooting death of his son Monday at the family home.

Boley allegedly shot Danny Boley, 26, when the son tried to intervene in a fight between his parents about 2 a.m. He died 30 minutes later at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston of a bullet wound in the chest.

Boley's bond was set at $50,000. The case was continued to Nov. 26 to allow Boley time to obtain an attorney.

The Scott County Sheriff's office said that Boley and his wife had been drinking at the Eagles Club in Sikeston before the shooting. After returning home, the couple began fighting.

Mrs. Boley telephoned her son to come to the home and he was shot shortly after arriving. He was shot once with a .22-caliber pistol.

Two persons arraigned for burglary and stealing were Thurman Watson, 439 Sunset Drive, for an Oct. 16 burglary of the Eddie Mills home, 800 Ruth St., Houston Hemphill, 1405 W. North St., for a Nov. 5 burglary of the Gussie Brown home, 1509 W. North. Bond was set at $2,500 for Watson and $3,500 for Hemphill.

George Torres, Route Four, was bound over to appear in Circuit Court Nov. 29 on a charge of stealing a motorcycle from Hicks Garage, 512 E. Center St., On Oct. 20.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Robert Shelton of 301 Cary, Kennett, for failing to appear in court on a charge of non support.

Jerry Lee Summers, 230 Felker St., was given a one-year suspended sentence for stealing and placed on probation for two years.

William Cantrell Jr., Route Two, was fined $21.50 for excessive vehicle noise by acceleration.

A mental examination was allowed for Daniel Tippy, 611 Cleveland St. who is facing a charge of marijuana possession.

Cases continued to Nov. 26 included: Paul Barnes, bogus check; Margeuerite Darlene Shafer, 410 Dona St. stealing; and Lonetta Gillean, Jon Don Acres, bogus check.

Charleston woman is injured

Fontella Stroud, 60, of 209 E. Iron Bank Road, Charleston, was treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital for minor injuries she received at 7:36 p.m. Monday in a traffic accident at the intersection of Pine Street and East Malone Avenue.

Police said Mrs. Stroud was a passenger in a car driven eastbound on Malone Avenue by her husband, James Virgal Stroud, 68. Stroud's car went through a red light and struck a car driven by Robert Wayne Melton, 175 Presnell Drive, police said. Melton was making a left turn onto Malone Avenue from Pine Street, according to police.

Mrs. Stroud was treated for bruises on the right leg.

Stroud was arrested for careless and imprudent driving.

Coin boxes broken into

Thieves broke open the coin boxes in two coin-operated children's rides at the Big K Store, Highway 61 South, police reported today.

The theft apparently occurred sometime late Monday night or early Tuesday morning. Police said the amount of loss was not known.

Ford meets with Hirohito

TOKYO (AP) — President Ford began the first American presidential visit to Japan today by meeting with Emperor Hirohito and assuring Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka that Japan can count on "a stable supply of agricultural imports from the United States."

Ford invited the emperor to visit the United States next year, renewing an invitation first extended three years ago, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference the invitation was accepted.

Strike reduces bus traffic at local station

Traffic at the Greyhound Bus Station, Highway 61 South, has dropped considerably since the nationwide strike against the Greyhound Bus lines.

Buses from two other lines — St. Louis-Cape and Conner bus lines — still use the station on a daily basis, according to L. S. Stucker, ticket agent.

Stucker said the strike has reduced traffic from abut 20 bus stops a day to about five.

He said passengers can take other lines to their destination in other lines run the same routes as Greyhound.

The bus station will remain open from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The strike began at 1 p.m. Monday with negotiations between the firm and the Amalgamated Transit Union breaking off an hour later.

The union is demanding an across the board pay hike of 60 cents per hour. Bus drivers are asking a one cent per mile increase.

The old contract called for an average wage of $5.76 per hour or 21.8 cents a mile.

Union officials blamed the strike partly on disagreement over the length of a new contract and difficulty in bargaining for the first time as a nationwide unit. Previous contracts had been negotiated separately for drivers on either side of the Mississippi River.

Dexter plant does not plan move

DEXTER — Recent rumors that the International Hat Company Plant No. 2 would be moved from Dexter were silenced Monday night when Mayor Willis Conner read a letter from the Gene Goodson, the company president, to members of the City Council.

The letter stated that the company does plan to build a new plant at Piedmont, but this expansion will not affect the Dexter plant. The letter stated that plans now are under way to increase production at all plants. "Not only do we plan to stay in Dexter, we plan to grow larger," the president said. The new plant at Piedmont will employ 400 persons.

Mayor Conner told the council the railroad people were cooperative when he approached them and asked that a flashing signal be installed at the One Mile Road crossing. This action was taken following a recent accident at the crossing, which has been the scene of many accidents in the past. Approximately 200 vehicles per hour cross the tracks at this location and 33 school busses follow this route daily, Conner reported.

The council voted to decleare Nov. 29 as holiday for all city employes. This will allow employes a four-day Thanksgiving weekend.

Council members were asked to study a plan which, if accepted, would allow the city to participate in the Community Development Act. This would replace the Housing and Urban Development Act which has been discontinued.

To participate in the program the city would have to meet several requirements. One of these would be the updating of the city's comprehensive plan. The council will study the plan and make a recommendation at the Dec. 2 meeting.

In other action the council voted to install street lights at the intersection of Arvin Road and Cooper St., Arvin Road and One Mile Road, Arvin Road and Fram Road and Arvin Road and Two Mile Road.

The council also voted to purchase a hoist and bed at a cost of $1,713.80 for a recently acquired truck.

Mayor Conner presented the council with the monthly auditor's report and noted that 60 per cent of all funds are invested. The annual audit will be presented at the Dec. 2 meeting.

City Attorney Paul McGee was asked to write a letter to the Cotton Belt Railroad protesting the excessive speed of trains through the city's east side. This action was taken following several complaints from area residents.

Planning and Zoning to meet

The Planning and Zoning Commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the City Administrative Building.

The agenda will include discussion of the federal government's flood plain insurance program which Sikeston will have to join.

The flood insurance program was once voluntary, but city officials have been told that if the city does not join, Sikeston could lose future federal grants and housing loans.

If the city does adopt the program, houses in some areas of the city will have to be built above the 100-year flood level to comply with regulations.

Ben Stephenson, a representative from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, will attend tonight's meeting.

Cleaner necessary

An important part of the 20-inch-row cotton harvester being tested by scientists at the University of Missouri's Delta Center at Portageville, is this cleaner. Bill Boon, who built the harvester, explains that a brush harvester picks up more sticks, leaves and hulls than a spindle picker, so the cleaner is a necessity. In this year's tests, Boon says the cleaner didn't give him the cotton grade he would like to have had, so he'll work on the cleaner to improve it before next season.

Ambulance will service North Scott County

BENTON — J. A. Chronister, chairman of the North Scott County Ambulance Service board of directors, has announced the purchase of a 1972 model ambulance for $5,950 from Miller-Meteor Coach Sales of Memphis, Tenn. Delivery is expected around Dec. 1, and the ambulance should be ready for use by Dec. 10, Chronister said.

The County Court allocated funds for the ambulance, Chronister said, and in a letter to him dated Thursday, gave him authority to make the purchase.

At an earlier court session, Chronister and a representative of the Miller-Meteor company presented the ambulance to the court for inspection. At that time Chronister told the board that the amublance will be brought up to 100 per cent shape, and that "it's in good shape now."

"This is a good price for an ambulance," Chronister said. "I've talked with the men who operated this machine, and at this pricce it would be a bargain."

He also told the court that it would meet or exceed all state specifications, and that when the new ambulance from the state is delivered in May, this one would be a good back-up ambulance.

The county court presently has a contract with a private Cape Girardeau firm, Cape County Private Ambulance Service, Inc., to provide emergency ambulance service for north Scott County. Chronister said he expects the ambulance service for north Scott County. Chronister said he expects the ambulance to be ready to serve the people when the contract with the Cape Girardeau firm expires at the first of the year.

Chronister said that the North Scott County Ambulance Service is a purely voluntary organization. The directors were appointed by the county court and serve without pay, Chronister said, and all the drivers and attendants are volunteers. The bookkeeping will be done without pay by members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Chronister said.

The drivers will be paid $100 per month and the attendants $3 per trip plus expenses. This is not meant to be a full salary, Chronister said, but just to provide a little encouragement for the volunteers.

The shifts of the drivers will be coordinated with their regular jobs, and the ambulance will be located in a place for quickest convenience of drivers on duty.

State will try to comply with extradition request

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri authorities have agreed to comply as far as they legally can with a request by Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller concerning the extradition of a doctor accused of killing his former wife in Kennett, Mo.

Hugh Sprague, legal assistant to Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond, said he would send to Waller's office statements from Dunklin County Prosecutor Charles H. Baker and Circuit Judge Flake L. McHaney.

Waller has said he would not sign an extradition warrant for Dr. Norman Garrison of Corinth, Miss., Until Bond agreed that bail would be available so Garrison could return to Corinth during the trial to see his patients.

Baker said the court could not be bound by a promise, but he said he would do everything he could to see that the $25,000 bond set Oct. 7 is not raised.

McHaney withdrew his order for a warrant for Garrison's arrest, charing Garrison with contempt of court in connection with the divorce case. The judge said the contempt of court citation would wait until after Garrison's trial on a murder charge.

Lee Ann Garrison,32, ex-wife of Garrison and daughter of a prominent Kennett family, was shot in the head and beaten at her stately home near Kennett last summer.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

People who never make a mistake also never do much of anything.

.....

While attending the Missouri Press Association in St. Louis I was talking to a lady there and one of the men passed by that I wanted her to meet and I couldn't think of his name. She looked at me and said, "You know when they get the same age that you are, you spend half of the time trying to recall names and the other half in the privy," and I thought she has it right on down, that is exactly right.

.....

I attended the Missouri - Kansas Editors Meeting in Kansas City Sunday and Monday, November 10 and 11. It was really a wasted trip as far as I was concerned, although the AP representative from Washington entertained us. Too much of the time was taken up by a Kansas man who was interested in polls and since we are of the opinion that polls ought to be conducted like the Dunklin County Democrat, the Kennett paper, they run it in the paper and give you a chance to cut it out and vote what you want, or whoever you want to vote for. I did enjoy the luncheon paid for by the Kansas City Star and I asked the main man if he brought the checkbook with him and he said no, he brought the American Express card, which would charge it and would give him three months to get the money, which I thought was pretty clever.

A concerned mother writes us, she signed he name, but she asked that we do not use her name, so we are going to use her letter as an editorial because we think it is a good one. Of course, I don't see a thing in the letter that would keep her from signing her name, but that is her desire and we are going to abide by it. Generally, I don't even handle these letters when they come in with no signature or asking me not to use their name, I generally just put them in a drawer and a year from now I throw them away, but here it goes as an editorial:

Dear Unconcerned Parents:

I have almost hit your child on several occasions with my car while he or she was riding a bicycle. Last evening was the most recent. Your son was riding his bike home from delivering papers. It was 6 p.m. and he was dressed in dark brown. The bike had no reflectors, light or reflector strips. As I came around the corner, there he was. A dark blob in front of my car, not more than 10 feet from me. I swerved and missed him.

I have met your daughter making a left hand turn from a side street into the oncomming traffic. By jamming on my brakes I was able to avoid her.

I also met your small child riding a friend on her small bike as she was falling from the sidewalk into the street.

Had I not anticipated what was happening, your child and her friend would have hit the side of my car and most likely gone under my rear wheel.

Please show some concern for your children. Inspect their bikes and see that they have reflectors on the back and sides, reflector strips on sides and on the pedals, and that if they are out at night to have a light. I would also like to see you enforce the proper rules for riding their bikes. They should ride with traffic and not against it. I can't think of anything more frightening than to see a bike coming at you an you have no place to turn.

OIL LEGISLATION ONLY FUEL FOR THE FIRE?

The energy crisis, brought to a head by the Arab oil embargo just a few months ago, seems to have been relegated to the status of an unpleasant but fading memory in the public mind.

Congress, too, appears to have an equally short memory if one is to judge by its contributions to "Project Independence"- the great government- inspired effort aimed at making the United States self- sufficient in energy by 1980.

So far, the nation's legislators have mandated national year- round Daylight Saving Time, a measure of dubious merit in conserving energy which they are considering modifying.

A bill authorizing the Alaskan pipeline was passed (after a five- year delay) and should be bringing some significant, though hardly adequate, amounts of oil to the U.S. market by late 1977 at the earliest.

The 55- mile- per- hour limit has helped the country cut gasoline consumption but there is evidence that it is being increasingly ignored by morotists and enforced decreasingly by authorities.

There is no lack of energy, however, when it comes to legislation aimed at reforming the oil industry. Bills abound in Congress, ranging from doing away with the depletion allowance to eliminating the foreign tax credit for U.S. companies to setting up a federal oil and gas corporation in direct competition with oil companies here.

The latter idea, favored by Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, (D-Ill), would put the government in the oil and gas business ostensibly to increase competition by acting as a yardstick for the industry on such things as prices. Something like a TVA for petroleum.

The petroleum industry views this possibility with a great deal of alarm and as industries usually do in such cases, is attempting to show that what is bad for it is bad for America.

A federal oil and gas corporation is only the tip of the iceberg of government interference with private industry, oil spokesmen warn. Other industries may be next- auto, steel, drug, banking and insurance, for examples.

If nothing else, just the threat of government competition seems to have served the useful purpose of keeping the oil industry on its toes. The important thing to note, however, is that the Stevenson proposal, like much of the other legislation aimed at the oil industry, whatever its merits, literally does nothing to add a drop of oil to the nation's reserves.

No matter how one feels about the petroleum industry, the oil companies constitute about the only sector working positively to solve the nation's energy problems, particularly with their massive commitments of capital for increased exploration and development.

It is estimated that this year the U.S. petroleum industry will reinvest a record $18.7 billion, an increase of 51 per cent over last year's $12.4 billion.

Of that $18.7 billion, $10 billion will be put back into the ground in the effort to find and develop not only oil and gas but other sources of energy, such as shale oil and coal.

In a recent talk, Charles J. DiBona, executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute, recommended a simple test for proposed legislation affecting oil industry operations. Constructive proposals, he said, should result in a "yes" answer to either or both of the following questions:

First, will the proposal encourage greater efficiency in the use of energy? Second, will the proposal result in increased energy supply?

It's a simple but useful yardstick that government as well as the oil industry must use if "Project Independence" is to be realized.

LET'S NOT GO TOO FAR

Inventors are among the folk heroes of America. Thomas Edison, Henry Ford, Eli Whitney, and George Washington Carver are only a few among many who are as well known as the best of our statesmen, generals, and athletes.

Thousands of other inventors achieved little fame as the result of their work, but they did achieve wealth and the satisfaction of knowing they had made a contribution to progress.

The patent law which enabled them to protect their inventions for seventeen years so they could be assured of personal reward, has served the public interest in giving incentive to potential inventors. Also, it has made possible public disclosure of inventions so other inventors have been able to utilize new discoveries.

Now Congress is considering revising the patent law to clarify many of the provisions, eliminate ambiguities, allow arbitration in some instances instead of litigation, and allow applicants to seek an injunction against competition during an examination period.

Several bills have been introduced. Congress should take time to consider carefully the various proposals so that patents do not become too expensive, but reasonable fees are charged; so that patents are neither too easy nor too difficult to obtain; and, above all, so that the public continues to benefit from technological progress which results from inventive genius.

ALUMINUM RECYCLING BENEFITS TWO WAYS

Reynolds Metals Co. has recycled 2.5 billion cans and paid the public more than $10 million since it began its program of collecting household aluminum scrap, the company reports.

In June it increased from 10 to 15 cents a pound the amount paid for scrap. There are roughly twenty cans in a pound.

Energy savings is one of the primary objectives in recycling, according to David P. Reynolds, executive vice president and general manager. "Each time we recycle aluminum we save 95 per cent of the energy that would be required to make primary aluminum, and aluminum can be recycled over and over again," he said.

COMMON SENSE OF HORSE TRADING

Every horse trader knows that you can never make a good deal if your eagnerness to buy is plain to see. If your adversary -- and horse trading is an adversary procedure -- suspects how badly you need his over-priced, broken-down nag, he'll run the price up sky high.

The few nations with surplus oil now have the industrial world in that position, like a vise. Japan and werstern Euope cannot exist as viable societies without that oil. The United States needs a small proportion to prevent depression and probable political ruin. The oil-exporting nations, like the horse trader, know all this. The facts cannot hidden.

What can be done is to reverse the curse which put the United States in this position. We crippled our own oil and gas industry, encouraging exploration and production elsewhere. Now we pay the price.

The independent oil men, who find 85 percent of the new reserves in the U.S., should be encouraged and set free to explore, not beaten down with punitive acts and regulations aimed at punishing profits and hurting foreign oil companies and dictators who are beyond reach anyway. Foreign producers will lower their prices when our traders no longer are on hands and knees begging. Bureaucrats do not find oil. All they do is drive the independents out of business, increase the cost, and reduce discoveries. Surely a few influential Senators and Congressmen remember something about horse trading.

Inside Labor

Not Political Pornography: Goldberg-Lindsay team played it rough with Rockefeller, too...

WASHINGTON —As the chap who introduced Arthur J. Goldberg and Bobby Kennedy to each other at an up-front table during the banquet honoring my good friend, the late Sen. William Knowland back in 1958, I do think I qualify as a well-rounded eclectic newsman -- and as an authority on Arthur and his grievances.

I've known labor lawyer-Secretary of Labor-Supreme Court Justice-U.N. Ambassador Goldberg much of my life. And I've read Vic Lasky's "biography" which Arthur has called "pornographic." If his is pornography, peep shows and lewd literature would be out of business.

I wouldn't exactly nominate Vic's shears and paste pot job for a Nobel prize in literature. But it does Goldberg no real injustice.

Certainly it doesn't fall into the "dirty tricks" category of political sabotage of assassination.

I covered that 1970 Rockefeller-Goldberg gubernatorial campaign in New York -- all the way from Rocky's pizza-pie wolfing to Arthur's egg roll eating with Liberal Party leaders in my favorite Chinese restaurant.

Goldberg was a ferocious infighter. He played it tough. Throughout 1969-70 he worked with some of the state's shrewdest politicalized labor leaders and the Democratic party's famed county chairmen -- from Tammany Hall to Troy. Confidential public opinion polls showed him the way. He grabbed the popular issues and followed the young, the anti-war crowd, the religious stresses and all that goes into a campaign. Actually, he was never a New Yorker and I dubbed his political drive the "making of a resident."

For Arthur the stakes were big -- namely nomination for Vice President of the U.S. n the Democratic ticket in '72 or '76 if he won the N.Y. governshrship first.

I'm no bushbeater for Nelson Rockefeller. Actually he owes me $2. Absolutely. But the ex-governor is on record as saying about Goldberg in April 1970: "He has been a friend of mine. He is a fine lawyer and an able mediator and negotiator ... We welcome his coming to New . . York."

But this was a gut fight. And Rockefeller wanted to make it big with labor in anticipation of some future race for the presidency. And "The Rock" had his own CREEP. It was called the Committee for the Reelection of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller. It was housed by tradition in the Hotel Rosoevelt on Manahttan's Madison Ave. It got hysterical. Like some WPA project it decided to "make work." So someone high in the inner circle passed word on to lawyer John Wells that a hack job should be done on Godberg. The rest is history.

But it's no hack job. Arthur is described as "extraordinarily birth" and "ambitious." Most of Vic's dull book is well documented. So why the brouhaha?

There was some rough stuff thrown at Rockefeller, too. Everybody appears to forget that ex-Mayor John Lindsay was in this fight -- and flayed the governor.. Don't be deceived by Rocky's genial "Hiya, fella." He's a very tough and stubborn man. And oftimes thin-skinned. And he rides his people hard. I know one of them who got the shakes whenever Rocky called. My friend never knew if he had blown the campaign or was to be flown to some end of the nation on a political mission or was about to receive an accolade.

Rockefeller had to approve everything everybody did. So when the book project came up, needled as he was by the Goldberg forces, he okayed it and forgot it.

I therefore don't believe Vic Lasky's 199-page "biography" is the issue at all. There is an obvious effort to create the confirmation hearings in the image of Sen. Ervin's Watergate drama. This is the opening of the 1976 campaign.

There is no doubt either in the highest New York state Republican Committeeheadquarters directed by Judge Dick Rosenbaum, or the national GOP committee, that if the fates permit it the 1976 ticket will be Ford and Rockefeller. The embattled Vice President-designate will, two years hence, be able to "pour in vigor, money, manpower and high-geared political machinery," says one national Republican leader.

And he will bring with him , and only he can, strong national labor support with AF L-CIO president George Meany for a starter, they believe. There's no doubt that Meany would pick his close friend Nelson as President if he (Meany) had his choice. Rockefeller always has had surprisingly widespread labor support in unions of the ultra-left wing of the old CIO, of the white collar and professional pursuits as well as among the hard hats. Such support would split the Democratic labor forces in the next presidential go-round. So perhaps the dirty trick is being played on Rockefeller -- not Godberg.

THAT'S GOOD— THAT'S BAD

WASHINGTON — Everywhere I travel in this great land I am asked the same question about the economy: "Why doens't the government do something?" The answer, as everyone in Washington knows, is that the government doesn't know what to do.

I was talking to my friend Baradash, a high government official, the other day.

"The price of meat should go down next month," he said

"That's good."

"No, that's bad. If meat goes down, the cattlemen are going to get sore and shoot their calves. You see, they're paying more for everything and getting less for what they sell."

"That's bad," I said.

"It could be good if we could hold the line on meat so wages in other industries would not go up. The real problem is fertilizer. There's a shortage of fertilizer because there is a shortage of oil. Of course, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates cut the price of their oil last week."

"That's good."

"Not really. At the same time they cut the price of oil they raised taxes on the oil companies, and it may cost us more for oil now than it did before."

"That's bad."

"And then we can't forget the coal srike in this country, can we?"

"You're really a joy to talk to, Bardash."

"Things aren't all that bad," he said. "Interest rates are going down."

"That's good." I brightened up.

"It won't solve our inflation problem, though. If money is easier to get, prices will probably go up again."

"That's bad."

"The important thing is that this country has been consuming too much. We've got to get people to conserve and not spend as if there were no tomorrow."

"It would be a good thing if they did," I agreed.

"It also could be a bad thing. If Americans didn'tspend as if there were no tomorrow, people will lose their jobs, and then they won't be able to buy new automobiles. If we don't sell any automobiles in this country, we're going to have a real recession, and then we'll have to raise taxes to take care of all the people who are out of work."

"That's bad."

"It could be good if we taxed gasoline because that would be the best way to cut down on our oil imports. If we could cut down on oil imports, we could have a better chance for a favorable balance of trade."

"That would be good," I said.

"It would be, but no one has any money to buy our exports, except possibly food. . .If we export our food, prices in the supermarkets will go soaring and we'll have a revolution at home."

"Baradash, you represent the government. Isn't there anything you people can do to stave off disaster;"

"Well, I'm wearing my WIN button, aren't I?" he said.

"That's good," I said.

"No," he replied. "That's bad. The damn thing cost me a buck, and it keeps making holes in my suites."

Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: 'Finest Hour' For Paper Shufflers

WASHINGTON — Neither war, nor pestilence, nor terrorist attack can stanch the processing of government forms.

A few weeks ago, for example, seven terrorists grabbed eight hostages in the Dominican Republic. Among the prisoners was Barbara Hutchinson, who headed the local U. S. information office.

For two long weeks, the insurgents held out, demanding $1 million ransom and the release of 38 political prisoners from Dominican jails. Throughout the ordeal, U. S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch and other officials negotiated intermittently with the terrorists.

The lives of the hostages hung in the balance. But among the paperclip crowde, the event merely generated extra paperwork.

There were forms to fill out, for example, to account for the food and drink, which were delivered daily to the guerrillas and their hostages.

Much of the food came from the U. S. embassy which, unhappily, had no authorizatin to feed desperados. Who would pay for the vittles, and how was the expense to be justified?

Hurwitch though the money should be taken from the embassy's "representation allowance," a fund that is supposed to finance parties, receptions and similar soirees "in U.S. interests."

The trouble was that the voucher forms simply weren't worded to accomodage the occasion.

In the wee hours one morning during the siege, Ambassador Hurwitch, exasperated over the paperwork, decided to let the State Dept. wrestle with the problem. . "This might keep Washington busy for awhile," he suggested brightly to his sleepy assistants.

Thereupon, Hurwitch composed a tongue-in-cheek cable, carefully classified it "Confidential," and fired it off to the home office.

"Dept. should be aware," states the classified cable, "that most of the sandwiches that have been delivered (to the terrorists) ... are product of the Ambassador's cuisine. The soft drinks have been on him ...

"After perusing all pertinent current regulations as well as studying all possible historical precedents which might enlighten, we regretfully confess that we are unable ... to complete the representation voucher. We just don't seem to be able to get the boxes on the form to fit the occasion.

"Such fundamental questions arise as to whether the kidnapers as well as the hostages chould be claimed. Can we properly maintain that feeding kidnapers is a social function that promotes U.S. interests?

"Among the hostages, there is a Spanish priest of the Domincan order; how do we feel about him, representation-wise? It should be noted that although this priest is referred to as 'he,' when the question of obtaining the release of the women was discussed with President Balaguer, the Spanish Ambassador quickly pointed out that his client wore skirts. If the priest is considered a legitimate representation claim, under what sex should we list him ...

"We would be most appreciative if the (State Dept.) would put its talent to work and provide us guidance on filling out the representation voucher before too many more sandwiches are eaten."

HUNGER AND HATE: In the impoverished parts of the world, 700 million people are suffering debilitating hunger. Many of them will die of starvation.

The American people, of course, have donated more than their share to feed the hungry. Each year, the United States gives away or sells at nominal cost $1 billion worth of grain to poor countries.

In contrast, the greedy oil-producing nations aren't giving away oil or lowering the price for poor countries.

Yet, when the media of the world starts to depict starving millions, consider the kind of hatred that could be directed toward well-fed Americans.

It is estimated that the livestock in America consume enough foodstuffs each year to feed 1.3 billion people. Put another way, if Americans were to switch to the diet of the Chinese, the United States could feed almost one billion people more than it does. Or to put it still another way, the average American uses up five times as much agricultural resources as the average Indian, Nigerian or Colombian.

Americans put enough fertilizer on their lawns and parks to make up India's fertilizer shortage. With this fertilizer shortage, India could grow the grain it needs to save perhaps millions from starvation.

The grain that goes into the alcohol that Americans drink could feed 20 million people a year. All it would take to prevent mass starvation in the world would be a three per cent reduction in grain cnsumption by the American people -- in other words, just a few meatless days and a little less booze.

The alternative, almost certainly, will be a growing hatred for Americans. The consequences of that hatred, the food politics that would emerge, would result inevitably in anti-American alliances, embargoes on raw materials, revolutions, mob violence.

The process of drying plums to make prunes was developed by the ancient Egyptians.

ON OLDER HOMES

Every year, twice as many American families buy older (or previously-occupied homes) than they do new houses. Depending upon the age of the home, naturally, there may be some unknown risks in the area of construction, plumbing, or wiring. However, these can be obviated by a professional inspection.

But there are also some major advantages to buying an older home. It normally contains far more space than a new home in the same price range, and there are a great many more older homes than new homes for sale which gives you a wider opportunity to make a good buy. Also, many older homes have a charm, location, and graciousness that can't be found in a new home.

True, a new home will give you fewer maintenance problems and more modern built-in appliances, however, there is much to be said for the older home too. The best approach is to look at both and weigh the merits. We'll be happy to show you a fine selection of both older and new homes to choose from.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Mitchell is Past President of the Sikeston Board of Realtors and is currently serving as Vice-President of the Missouri Association of Realtors.)

Other officers will be elected in December, Simmons said.

Medieval Origin

Freemasonry evolved from the guilds of stonemasons and cathedral builders of the Middle Ages. With the decline of cathedral building, some lodges began to accept honorary members to bolster their declining rolls. Beginning with the practices and symbols of the old guilds, Freemasonry developed the rites and ceremonies of its present-day chivalric brotherhood.

Dr. Finch to practice again

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Raymond Bernard Finch finally can hang up his shingle in El Dorado Springs and put an "R." Before his name again.

Monday Finch was mailed a certificate of registration, No. 35372, Authorizing him to practice medicine in the state.

John A. Hailey, executive secretary of the State Board of Registration for the Healing Arts, said the board had no further recourse after the Missouri Supreme Court refused, 6-1, last Tuesday, to hear an appeal by the board from the State Court of Appeals in Kansas City, which ruled in favor of Finch.

The acted ended a two-year legal battle, following refusal by the board in 1972 to allow Finch to take the medical examination because of his murder conviction in Los Angeles for killing his second wife in 1959. A circuit court order forced the board to allow Finch to take the test, which he passed last June, and the board appealed.

Finch was convicted with his receptionist, Carole Tregoff, in the murder, and lost his California license. At the time, he owned a hospital in West Covina, a Los Angeles suburb.

Finch was paroled in 1971 and moved to El Dorado Springs, 100 miles south of Kansas City. He has worked as an X-ray technician at the Cedar County Hospital.

Miss Tregoff has been paroled and is living in California.

Finch becomes the fourth doctor in the town of 3,300.

Hailey said the certificate of registration is all that's necessary pending formal signing of a license by the board at its February meeting.

"The court gave him a license, and our attorney feels he could have begun practice when the court ruled," Hailey said.

Finch, 56, plans to join Dr. Harry Langeluttig in a practice. They hope to eventually set up a medical center.

"I think the decision of the courts and the support I've had...Have been very encouraging for the entire process of rehabilitation," Finch said.

Hailey said he called a news conference to clear up any misunderstanding about procedures the Healing Arts Board would follow.

State law says the board can deny a license on grounds of bad moral character, and a felony conviction is listed as grounds for such a finding. However, the courts ruled that evidence shows Finch has been rehabilitated and is of good moral character.

A new law eliminates a felony conviction as grounds for license denial provided the applicant has been pardoned. The law took effect Aug. 13. Finch has not been pardoned by California.

"Our law is in effect overturned," Hailey said.

Hailey said he thought the case was far-reaching and "will affect other states."

He said he had received inquiries from Nevada and Massachusetts.

The certificate says Finch is registered to practice from July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975. Next June, Finch can have his license renewed simply by sending in an application, plus $10.

Pure Water

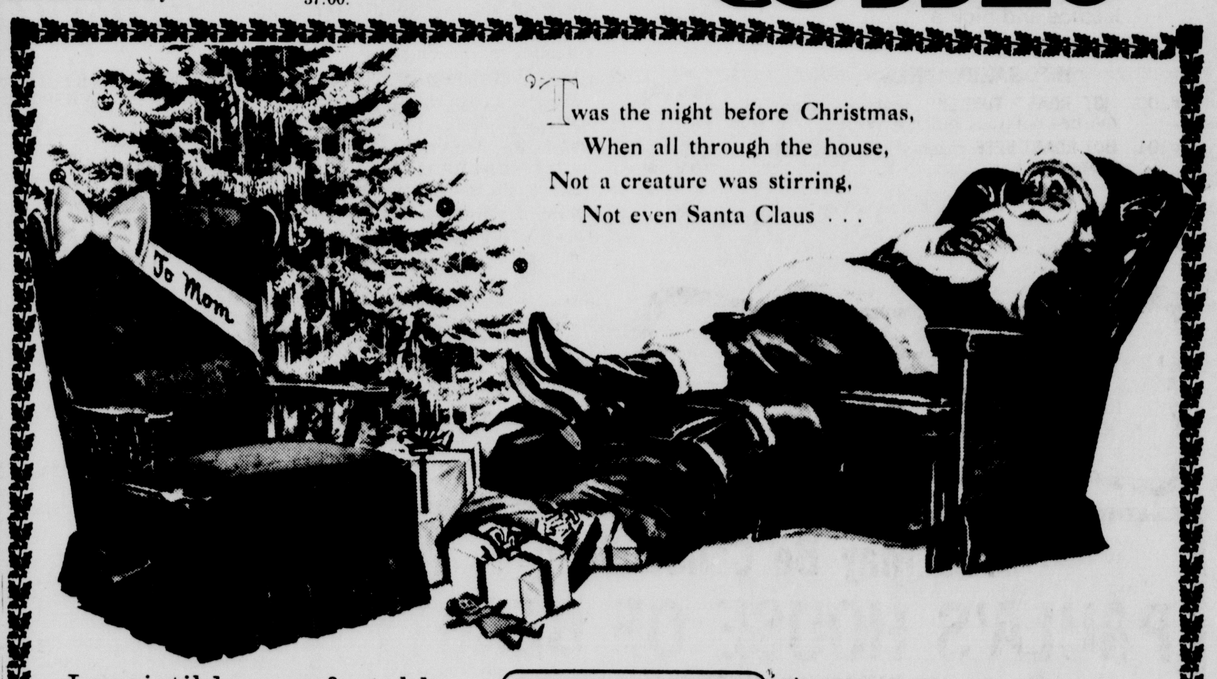

The waters of the Amazon River are among the purest in the world. Water tested by a joint U.S.-Brazilian expedition were found to have a chemical purity nearly equal to that of distilled water and greater than tap water in the United States. One reason for the water's purity is that the heavy rainfall in the river basin has almost completely washed the soil of readily soluble minerals.

New piano bought for nursing home

The residents of the Sikeston Convalescent Center will now be able to make music together with a recently acquired piano.

Money will be raised by the Sunlighters Volunteer Group, through bake sales, garage sales and turkey raffles. However, donations are welcomed by the staff and personnel at the center.

To be sure each resident is visited by Santa Claus, a gift repository is now open for donations of practical gifts.

A November birthday party for residents sponsored by the Sunlighters will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The Moderne Chorale from Sikeston High School under the direction of Gordon Beavery, will present a program.

The Sunlighters have added a male member to the previously all female group. G. H. Rogers is the pioneer and said he wants specifically to work with the male residents.

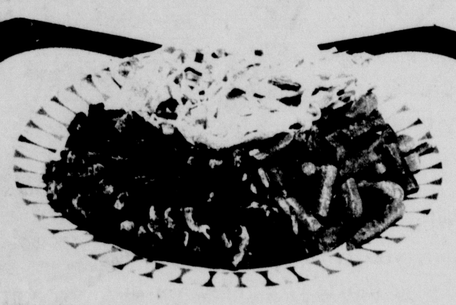

Mrs. G. H. Rogers and Mrs. Raymond Page are also new members.

The Sunlighters will meet at 2 p.m., Dec. 10 at the Sikeston Convalescent Center.

Ann Landers

Husband prefers to keep pet cat over stopson

Dear Ann Landers: People think you make up letters. Well, after this one I don't know what the Doubting Thomases will say, but so help me God it's real.

I'm in a second marriage (his first) and I thought I knew R very well before I made the step. He seemed very fond of my son (now age six) and everything looked beautiful. We were married five months ago and R moved into our apartment with his cat. It looked like a wonderful life ahead for all of us.

A few weeks ago my son broke out in a rash. When he became asthmatic I took him to the doctor. The verdict: Donnie is allergic to eggs and cats.

When I told my husband he said, "Let's start looking for a foster home for the boy. I could never give up Chessie." I didn't think I heard right and replied, lightheartedly, "You've got to be kidding." He shot back, "I've never been more serious in my life." I controlled myself admirably while R explained the advantages of keeping the cat and getting rid of Donnie. (Less work, less expensive, less emotional trauma, no sitter problems, etc.)

After I made it plain that I was horrified by his suggestion and would never give up Donnie, my husband grudgingly agreed to take Chessie to his mother's house "until Donnie gets better."

The cat went yesterday but there has been very little communication between us ever since. Did I marry a nut? -- Boggled in Brentwood

Dear Boggled: Probably.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have decided to let you settle this. Our daughter Nancy, 14, is the complete opposite of her 16-year-old sister. We can't figure out what we did wrong.

Nancy lies, has a terrible temper, won't listen to anyone, and fights with her older sister constantly. She does poorly in school and is always in trouble with the teachers. We have tried counseling but it hasn't helped.

My husband's sister, Ruth, who lives 500 miles from here, is the only person in the world who can get along with this incorrigible girl. Ruth has asked us to allow Nancy to go live with her for awhile. She teaches school and Nancy would be a student there. The girl wants to go. My husband and I don't think his well-meaning, big-hearted sister understands what she's getting into. What do you say, Ann? -- Bothered and Bewildered

Dear B & B: I say let Nancy go The experiment will be good for all of you.

Your husband's sister sounds like a gem. She might change the course of Nancy's life. Please let me hear from you in six months. I'd like to know how things are going.

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the man who referred to himself as "mature" (he wrote because he was undecided about whether or not to marry a woman with "gross legs") really got to me. It seems that although they had gone together for over a year, he saw her only in pantsuits and long gowns.

I wonder if he thought to have her teeth checked. And what's with YOU, that you'd print such a stupid thing? Isn't it enough that everyone who writes in is nutty as a fruitcake? Must you publish such every bit of nonsense? -- Ho-Hum

Dear Hum: Did you say everyone who writes in is nutty as a fruitcake? I don't agree, but thanks for your letter.

Confidential to Congratulations For Admitting You Were Wrong: It's the least I can do. I've had to eat my words many times and I've discovered that humble pie can be a highly nourishing diet supplement.

Yarn balls glimmer on holiday trees

Deck your tree with balls of a glimmering yarn of Creslan acrylic fiber and nylon which has the right look for a tree — particularly one without lights. And there's nothing for toddlers or pets to break.

TO MAKE THE BALLS: Cut two cardboard circles to desired size of pompon and cut a hole about ¼" in center of each. For balls 1 to 1½ inches in diameter — cut 4 lengths of Glimmer yarn, each 3 yards long. Place circles together and wind yarn through center and over edges. Continue until circles are completely covered and opening is filled in.

Cut yarn between two circles and slip length of yarn between the cardboards winding it very tightly around several times; knot leaving ends long enough to tie to tree. Remove circles. Fluff pompon and trim. (You can work with two colors at a time or you can make designs by sectioning off your circle with different colors. A plastic yarn needle makes the going easier once the hole in center begins to fill up.)

Moths can nibble on wools, furs

CHICAGO, Ill. — Clothes moths, which in olden days were a household pest mostly in May and June, today are a yearr-around problem. In steam-heated homes their ravages persist right around the calendar.

It is estimated that moths cause some $200 million in damage every year. Incidentally, it is not the moths themselves that cause the damage. The actual culprits are the tiny worm-like larvae that hatch from the eggs laid by the moths.

Ruth Anne McKeown, consumer information specialist for a floor wax company, points out that the moth larvae prefer woolens, especially if they are soiled and spotted, but will also eat furs, feathers and even cotton and rayon.

Good housekeeping is one of the best defenses against moths, according to Miss McKeown. Rugs that are regularly vacuumed and clothes that are kept spotfree are not likely to be attacked. Moths like to feed and breed in cracks in the floor and around baseboards where lint collects. These should be carefully vacuumed.

Closets where clothes are kept should be thoroughly cleaned at least once a year. In the process, spray the interior of the closet -- including shelves, floor and baseboards -- with a reliable moth proofer. All clothes should be aired and brushed before being returned to the closet.

Before storing out-of-season clothes -- and blankets and other woolens -- be sure they are immaculately clean and sprayed with moth proofer. Be sure to get the spray into seams and folds. The interiors of garment bags and boxes used to store clothes also should be sprayed.

Such a routine will thwart the moths and save you money.

Color TV sets will turn on loved ones on Christmas

Looking for satisfactory answers to what to give those family names high on your Christmas gift list this year?

Then go electronic. Give the gift of colorful sight and sound. Give one of the new, advanced color television sets.

As it may have been some years since you shopped for a color TV set, it is important to know that today's screen sizes vary — even from those of several years back. One idea is to give a set with a screen size as close as possible to the one it may be replacing.

Buying helps

If this is your first-time purchase of a color set, then here are some down-to-earth helps:

• The 17-inch diagonal screen size with 150 square inches of picture is practical for small family use or as a second set.

• The 19-inch diagonal screen size with 185 square inches of picture comes in table models, and this year in consoles. The table model is recommended for second or third set use, the console as the main receiver for the viewing area where space is limited.

• The 25-inch diagonal screen size has 315 square inches of picture. It is in table models, full base consoles and combinations. These sets are suggested for use in the living room, family room or home viewing area wherever the decor dictates.

TENNIS

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — American Nancy Gunter advanced to the third round of the South African Open Tennis Championships with a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Karin Boshoff.

DETROIT — A group of investors headed by tennis promoter William H. Bereman has purchased the Detroit Loves of World Team Tennis and will move the franchise to Indianapolis.

Big 8 coaches predict winner

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Big Eight Conference basketball coaches predicted Sunday that Kansas will repeat as the league champion.

Seven of the eight coaches converged on Kansas City for their annual November meeting and met with the news media. Sox Walseth of Colorado, the dean of Big Eight coaches, did not attend because of a hernia operation Friday.

"Kansas has to be an overwhelming favorite," said Oklahoma Coach Joe Ramsey. "Everybody should be in the race with Kansas the standout. The league continues to improve each year and be better balanced. This year will be no exception."

Of his own team, boasting star Alvan Adams, Ramsey said, "Anytime you have an Alvan Adams, I believe that you have a good shot at the title."

Coach Joe Cipriano of Nebraska asserted that "everybody's got to pick Kansas as the No. 1 choice but I'm sure they're going to have trouble replacing Tom Kivisto. I suppose you have to give Oklahoma the second shot with Adams as good as he is.

"I think we'll hve the quickest team in the conference."

Walseth sent word he thinks the Jayhawks "are going to win."

Colorado's chances received a severe blow Sunday when Dave Logan, the Buffs' No. 2 scorer and rebounder last year, had knee surgery resulting from an injury in the Oklahoma State football game Saturday. He will be lost to the Buff cagers for the season.

Norm Stewart, the Missouri coach, pointed to Kansas as the 1975 champion and added, "There should be some balance but when you look at a favorite ..."

Stewart said the Tigers do not have a strong, proven, quality basketball player and lack physical strength but added, "We think we can have a good team."

Kansas Coach Ted Owens admitted the Jayhawks' biggest problem was replacing Kivisto.

"Logikally, we should be favored," said Owens. "We were 13-1 last year but we didn't dominate the league that much. We won some close games. I think we can come up with a quarterback to replace Kivisto."

The Jayhawks have a veteran team returning, losing only Kivisto. Returning are such proven players as Roger Morningstar, Rick Suttle, Danny Knight, Dale Greenlee, Norm Cook and Tommie Smith.

Ken Trickey of Iowa State, only new coach in the conference, said he didn't know too much about the other clubs but that his cyclones would be "pretty good. We'll try to run and shoot the ball and play a pressure-type defense."

Trickey succeeds the late Maury John.

Lilbourn, Delta C-7 capture tourney wins

WARDELL — Number one seeded Lilbourn and third seeded Delta C-7 moved into the winning bracket of the North Pemiscot Tournament Monday night with convincing victories. The Panthers turned back East Prairie by a score of 84-59 while the Chargers downed Pemiscot County 72-54.

East Prairie found the going tough from the start of the game. The Panthers opened the tourney with good ball handling and sound scoring, going ahead in the first period 19-10. Consistent hitting kept the Lilbourn team ahead during the second quarter, although the Eagles dumped in 20 markers At the break, Lilbourn led by 10 points.

The half-time break did nothing to cool the Panthers, as they went on to rip the nets for 24 points in the third quarter. The Eagles could not contain the Lilbourn squad and had to suffer a first round defeat.

Frankie Robinson, 6-1 Junior, had the hot hand for the Panthers putting 26 big points through the hoop. Backing him up in the double-figure column were Archie Boyd and Ernest McFarren with 17 and 16 points respectively.

The second game saw Pemiscot County slowly give way to Delta C-7's style of play during the last half. The score remained close in the first and second periods and it looked as if the third seeded Chargers had a battle on their hands. By the half, Delta C-7 had a 31-30 edge.

Third quarter action remained close as both teams had brief moments of holding the lead, but it was the Chargers who came up with it to end the period, 46-40. The final quarter blasted Pemiscot County off the court as Delta C-7 poured in 27 big markers to their 14 to run off with an expected win.

Four of the Charger players chalked up double- figure scoring. Two juniors, Tom Mead and Robert Stark, had the high scoring honors with 20 and 18 markers respectively. Carey Guyton followed with 15 points and Dwight Blankenship helped out with 12. David Madden was top scorer for Pemiscot County with 21 points. He was backed up by Charles McGauhey with 12 markers and Ruben Smith with 10.

Second round action gets under way tonight at 6:30 with Risco going up against New Madrid and host North Pemiscot facing Gideon.

Oklahoma ranks no. one

AP Sports Writer

Led by No. 1-ranked Oklahoma, the eight top teams in The Associated Press college football ratings held onto their positions today.

Oklahoma, which took over the top spot from Ohio State a week ago, trounced Kansas 45-14 and received 45 first-place votes and 1,198 of a possible 1,-220 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama remained second by defeating Miami, Fla. 28-7. The Crimson Tide received nine first-place baliots and 1,078 points. Michigan crushed Purdue 51-0 and pulled down eight first-place votes and 1,040 points.

Then came Ohio State, a 35-10 winner over Iowa; Notre Dame, which edged Pitt 14-10; Nebraska, which routed Kansas State 35-7; Auburn, a 17-13 victor over Georgia; Southern California, which drubbed Washington 42-11; Texas A&M, a 37-7 winner over Rice, and Penn State, which downed Ohio U. 35-16.

Texas A&M and Penn State moved up one spot apiece when Florida, which was ninth last week, lost to Kentucky 41-24 and plummeted to 20th.

The Second Ten consists of Maryland, Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State, Michigan State, Houston, Baylor, Texas, Pitt, California and Florida.

Last week's Second Ten was Penn State, Miami, Maryland, Houston, Michigan State, N.C. State, Pitt, Oklahoma State, California and Texas Tech.

Oklahoma State dropped out following a 37-20 loss to Colorado and Texas Tech fell from the Top Twenty after a 17-10 loss to Baylor. That triumph lifted Baylor into the Top Twenty for the first time since the 1963 season. Texas, which dropped out last week, climbed back in by routing Texas Christian 81-16.

Plunkett, Patriots hit the skids

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Jim Plunkett, who did little wrong in leading the New England Patriots to five consecutive victories at the start of the National Football League season, is a confused young man these days.

Now he can't seem to do much right as the Patriots have hit the skids with three defeats in a row and four in the last five games.

The star quarterback appeared on the verge of stardom only a few weeks ago. Now he completes almost as many passes to opponents as he does to his teammates.

He has been intercepted 13 times in the last five games. He threw four interceptions last week in a 21-14 loss to the Cleveland Browns and then was intercepted four more times Sunday in a 21-16 upset by the New York Jets.

"It hurts," Plunkett said in the wake of the Jets' loss. "It's tough, it's humiliating. I pulled a hamstring in the third period, but that wasn't any reason. There are no excuses. Pressing? I don't know, but I'm very aware of everything. Yes, maybe I am pressing some. I don't know.

"After the Cleveland game, I thought all week about what happened. Then the same things happen, the interceptions."

"He's having a little slump — take the word little away, it's just a slump," New England Coach Chuck Fairbanks said. "There's a fine line between success and failure for a passer. Jim needs to have a little success.

"He is not our problem. A lot of our receiving corps is not what we had the first half of the season, so he's not being helped there." Plunkett had several passes dropped by intended receivers against the Jets, but what hurt the most was rookie Roscoe Word's interception in the end zone after the Patriots had moved to a first down at the New York five with two minutes to play.

"Sure, Jim's made some mistakes, hell, we all have," said 10-year veteran Tom Neville, an offensive tackle. "He's still in the learning stage. I'm still in the learning stage. The coaching staff is in its second year and we're in a new system. Jim is cool in the huddle and his play calling is according to the game plan. We'll break out of it."

More than wounded pride was hurting Monday as the Patriots held their usual practice. Star fullback Sam Cunningham and wide receivers Reggie Rucker and Steve Schubert were placed on the injured reserve list, finished for the season.

Cunningham, who fractured the fibula in his lower right leg as he banged 18 yards to the New York five at the two-minute warning, is the team's leading round-gainer and scorer. Rucker is the team's leading receiver and Schubert, a rookie, has been outstanding on the special teams.

"Injuries are part of football," Fairbanks said philosophically. "If a team is deep, it has a better hance of overcoming the loss of players. This club does not have that over-all depth and quality, so the loss of certain players really hurts."

Local Bowling

Elmer Taylor captured high individual game honors with a 132 and the high individual series honors with 326 in Thursday's Bantam Bowling. High team game and series went to the Jolly Bowlers with 595 and 1174. Others bowling 100 games were: Mike Price 117, Edie Simpson 107, Harold 112, and Chris Steward 105.

TEAM RESULTS
Jolly Bowlers 2, Muskettes 0
Tiny Tots 1, Gutter Dusters 1
Super Bowlers 1, Four Funnies 1
Giants 1, Beetles Bugs 1

In Friday's Bantam bowling action, Albert claimed both high individual game and series with a 135 and 254. Bootheel Sports Beat

By BILL HARRISON

Well, I knew there would be a lot of good teams and some excellent balance in the area this season in basketball but I must admit that I'm surprised at some of the scores of the games played already.

For example, how about Matthews beating Risco Friday night and Scott Central downing Advance; Matthews was supposed to be weak offensively this season but Risco found out that you must play little defense to win ball games.

Advance looked like anything but championship caliber against Scott Central but maybe the Braves defense had a lot to do with that. Maybe Carroll has taught little brother Ronnie too much in the past few years.

Scott Central is going to be tough to beat this year. They have enough height and possess more speed and quickness that most of their opponents and I wouldn't be surprised to see them in the first round of the state tournament at Bloomfield in March against perhaps the Advance Hornets. Wouldn't that be a real matchup. Advance will smooth out the rough edges before too long.

At any rate there are going to be some good ball games this winter.

This week's schedule is headed by the North Pemiscot Invitational tournament at Wardell. Lilbourn looks like the champ there. It should be a very exciting tournament with all the good teams this year.

Tuesday regular schedule is light with only two games of area interest playing. Bernie at Puxico and Oran at Delta.

Here are my predictions for the two games Tuesday and the schedule Friday.

Bernie at Puxico -- I mentioned before that Puxico didn't have any guards and Coach Pete Townsend seems to have been offended. I apologize for the statement if the Indians do have good guards. I didn't mean to downgrade the players. The Indians are 0-2 so far but they should pick up against the Mules. Puxico 75, Bernie 65.

Oran at Delta -- This should be a real ball game. Even on the same level of the Scott Central - Advance game Friday night. Oran has improved along with Delta. The Bobcats just barely got by Puxico last week. Both teams are a running shooting type teams. I'll strictly offer a guess on this one. Delta 80, Oran 79.

Friday: Oran at Advance --- Another good game in the making. Advance has the material and if they can get it all together. Oran doesn't have the press defense that Scott Central has so I pick the Hornets --- 70-65.

Notre Dame at Kelly --- Coach Nick Lanpher seems to think that the Hawks are as good as last year's team so this might be the the test. Notre Dame graduated a lot of people so I will pick Kelly --- 75-68.

Scott Central at Parma --- This another class A barnburner. Scott Central's defense will give the Pirates fits all night. The Braves 75, Parma 60.

Woodland at Meadow Heights --- Meadow Heights has my nod, 70-60.

Senath - Hornersville at Holcomb --- I don't know much about either of these two so I'll take a chance on Holcomb, 60-55.

Bell City at Bloomfield --- The Wildcats are too tough for the Cubs --- 77-60. Cooter at Campbell --- The Camels will win easily --75-50.

Viburnum at Arcadia - Valley --- Arcadia Valley will romp 80-60.

"Our whole company is saving energy. The Government has asked corporations to reduce energy consumption 15%, and is providing guidance and incentive awards. We're saving on heating and air conditioning with better insulation and more efficient systems. And that giant sign on the roof that used to burn all-night— we turn it off at 10:30 now."

"I'm helping increase the capacity of an oil refinery so we can help meet the increased demands for gasoline and other usable forms of energy."

There's a big gap between domestic refining capacity and domestic energy needs, a gap that must be closed. To do it, we have to expand existing refineries or build new ones, so that our refining capacity can handle the growing demand for energy.

It will take everyone's understanding and cooperation to get this expansion and new construction going.

Council votes to accept housing

CHAFFEE — The City Council Monday night unanimously passed a resolution accepting the proposal for a 50-unit public housing for the elderly project in conjunction with application for a grant from the federal government to provide a water and sewage system from Chaffee to Rockview.

In order to receive a grant from the government, the city has to meet certain minimum requirements, among them a comprehsensive housing plan. The proposal accepted Monday night calls for the 50 units to be constructed by private firms and then to have the tenants subsidized by the federal government.

The water and sewer grant is sought from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and if approved would provide 100 per cent of the cost of the water and sewage system from Chaffee to Rockview.

A new city planning commission was named to work in conjunction with different planning committees and coordinate community development.

Appointed were Cyril Eichorn, Liston Mitchell, Keith Moore, James Chronister, Carlos Crump, Raymond Rowell and Mayor Sally Wehmeyer.

James M. Stubbs was reappointed commissioner of the Chaffee housing authority.

The council approved a 10-cent per capita donation by the city to help pay for new ambulance equipment forthe ambulance the North Scott County Ambulance Service is scheduled to receive soon.

A new Board of Adjustments was set up Monday to act as an appeal board for anyone who makes application for a permit and is turned down. Those appointed include: Dwain Rains, Ronnie Whittaker and Richard Smiley.

The resignation of City Clerk Pat Andreozzi, effective Dec. 6, was accepted by the council.

Also accepted by the council were two building permits. D. R. Boulware made application for a $500 addition to his house at 115 Black St., and C. O. Neece made application for an addition to his house at the corner of Helen Avenue and Highway 77 in the amount of $4,500.

Train speed revised

SCOTT CITY — The City Council Monday night repealed the ordinance limiting train speeds in town to 10 miles per hour and approved an ordinance revising the speed limit to 50 miles per hour.

The action came after C. C. Mitchell, a special representative of the Cotton Belt Railroad, told city officials in a special meeting Monday morning, that if the city did not cooperate with the railroad on revising the speed limit for trains it should not expect cooperation from the railroad on the installation of flasher lights at crossings in the city.

At the special meeting Monday morning Gener Shackelford, railroad safety supervisor for the Missouri Public Service Commission, made the recommendation that the 10 mile per hour limit be abolished.

The 50 mile per hour limit is a compromise measure, council member Marvin Arnold said today. He added that the railroad wanted no limit, but that the the city preferred to have some limit in effect.

Mitchell said he expects the railroad to go along with the new limit and to cooperate with the city on the installation of flasher lights.

Plans call for the railroad to bear the full cost of installation of lights at the Daugherty Street crossing and 10 per cent of the cost at the Oak Street crossing. The city will pay for lights at the Louis Street crossing with aid from the Federal Safe Roads Program.

City Attorney Thomas Arnold will make applications for the lights at the three crossings to the Missouri Public Service Commission with the railroad and the Federal Safer Roads Program.

Shackelford told the council Monday night that it may take up to one year to install the lights, and that first public hearings on the topic will have to be conducted before the PSC can give their approval.

Plans are to close the two crossings at Delmar and Crites Streets after lights are installed at the other three crossings.

The City Council also authorized payment of $61,844 as the first payment on the construction of a pool-park complex by Sides Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau.

Preparation of traffic ordinance approved

NEW MADRID - The City Council Monday night approved the preparation of a traffic control ordinance and discussed other business.

At the recommendation of a committee, composed of Alderman Ed LaValle, Bill Boyd and City Marshal Virgil "Flid" Dees, named to study traffic control, a stop sign was approved for the Crisler and Mott street intersection to slow down traffic entering Mott Street from old Kingshighway.

An ordinance was ordered written for the stop sign.

The committee also found that speeding was occurring on Route U and recommended that the police department control the area and enforce the speed limit by issuing tickets.

In other matters, the council agreed to meet at 10 a.m. Thursday with Alex Waters of the Waters and Associates engineering firm of Sikeston for the discussion of street costs and construction in the northeast section of town.

Citizens in that area had objected to the proposed cost of over $8 per foot and the council is trying to find an alternate plan at a lower cost.

The council is also scheduled to discuss problems arising in the West Acres subdivision concerning failure of the contractor to install water and sewer connections for the lots at set out in the subdivision plan.

The council agreed after a meeting last Tuesday with representative of the law firm of Blanton, Blanton, Rice and Sickal of Sikeston to proceed with a suit against Associated Electric Cooperative Inc. in which the city is requesting a declaratory judgment for failure of the cooperative to deliver 10,000 kilowatts of electricity to the city as required by contracts. The suit seeks judgment of $1,000 per month from July 1, 1974, the first month the power should have been delivered.

Mayor Jim Cravens told the council possible construction money is available through federal sources for the construction of firm labor housing with a possible 75 per cent grant and the balance financed at one per cent interest. The council agreed to proceed with a request for a study of the need for the housing and to make application for the program.

The council briefly discussed the demolition ordinance requiring derelict buildings to either be torn down or repaired, and agreed to have the commisioners try to determine which buildings required action.

Chronister said the system will be arranged in such a way that the ambulance will be ready 24 hours per day.

The Chaffee General Hospital will be the base station where people can call for ambulance service.

Two drivers have already been hired at $100 per month. By the time the ambulance arrives, 30 volunteers will be state-qualified to be drivers and attendants, Chronister said.

Salaries for the drivers and attendants is expected to come from the intake of the ambulance service. The County Court has set a rate of $30 per call inside Scott County, plus 50 cents per mile for every mile outside the county.

tial real estate loans and the degree of competition among lenders.

The Senate bill, to be handled by Democrats Jack Gant of Independence and Albert Spradling of Cape Girardeau, is similar to Sikes' proposal except that 10 per cent interest can be charged on non-real estate and corporation loans between $2,500 and $5,000.

Under Sikes' bill, no more than 10 per cent can be charged for unpaid principle between $500 and $5,000.

Both bills set a punishment of up to $500 for violation of the law.

Both bills retain the small loan rate of 2.218 Per cent interest per month on loans up to $500. But the Senate bill sets a 1.25 Per cent per month additional interest on the unpaid balance over $500 and less than $2,500.

A spokesman for the Missouri Consumer Finance Association says the small lending institutions will go out of business unless they can charge more than 8 per cent for loans over $500, which they are prevented from doing now.

Both bills remove the interest limit on loans to refinance mortgages. The Senate bill also classifies mobile homes as real estate. Both bills classify as residential real estate a dwelling unit with not more than four families and say no more than one point can be charged on sales of such homes.

Higher points apparently could be charged on loans to build apartment buildings. The lender also could charge fees to cover "bona fide" expenses in negotiating the loan, such as a title search.

Both bills have an emergency clause, which would put the law into effect when the governor signs it.

Goodman held in robbery

SUMMERSVILLE, Tenn. — A Parma, Mo. man, Herbert Goodman, 47, is being held in the Fayette County jail for robbery and kidnaping after abducting a Moscow woman and robbing her husband of $70 Thursday night.

Goodman was arrested by Shelby County authorities and turned over to the Fayette sheriff's department after being apprehended when stopped by a roadblock.

The former Missouri State Penitentiary inmate, suspected of recent armed robberies in the Misssouri Bootheel, reportedly was released in October from the Jefferson City maximum security institution after serving seven years of a 10-year sentence from Dunklin County for armed robbery.

Confiscated upon his arrest was a 22-caliber pistol, reportedly stolen in Nebraska in 1971. Authorities said the gun had five shells in it and one empty cartridge.

Fayette County authorities said Goodman robbed Elwood Simmons of $70 and abducted his wife as a hostage around 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Bond has been set at $50,000, and trial was scheduled on Nov. 25 after a preliminary hearing today.

Charleston woman is injured

Fontella Stroud, 60, of 209 E. Iron Bank Road, Charleston, was treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital for minor injuries she received at 7:36 p.m. Monday in a traffic accident at the intersection of Pine Street and East Malone Avenue.

Police said Mrs. Stroud was a passenger in a car driven eastbound on Malone Avenue by her husband, James Virgal Stroud, 68. Stroud's car went through a red light and struck a car driven by Robert Wayne Melton, 175 Presnell Drive, police said. Melton was making a left turn onto Malone Avenue from Pine Street, according to police.

Mrs. Stroud was treated for bruises on the right leg.

Stroud was arrested for careless and imprudent driving.

Coin boxes broken into

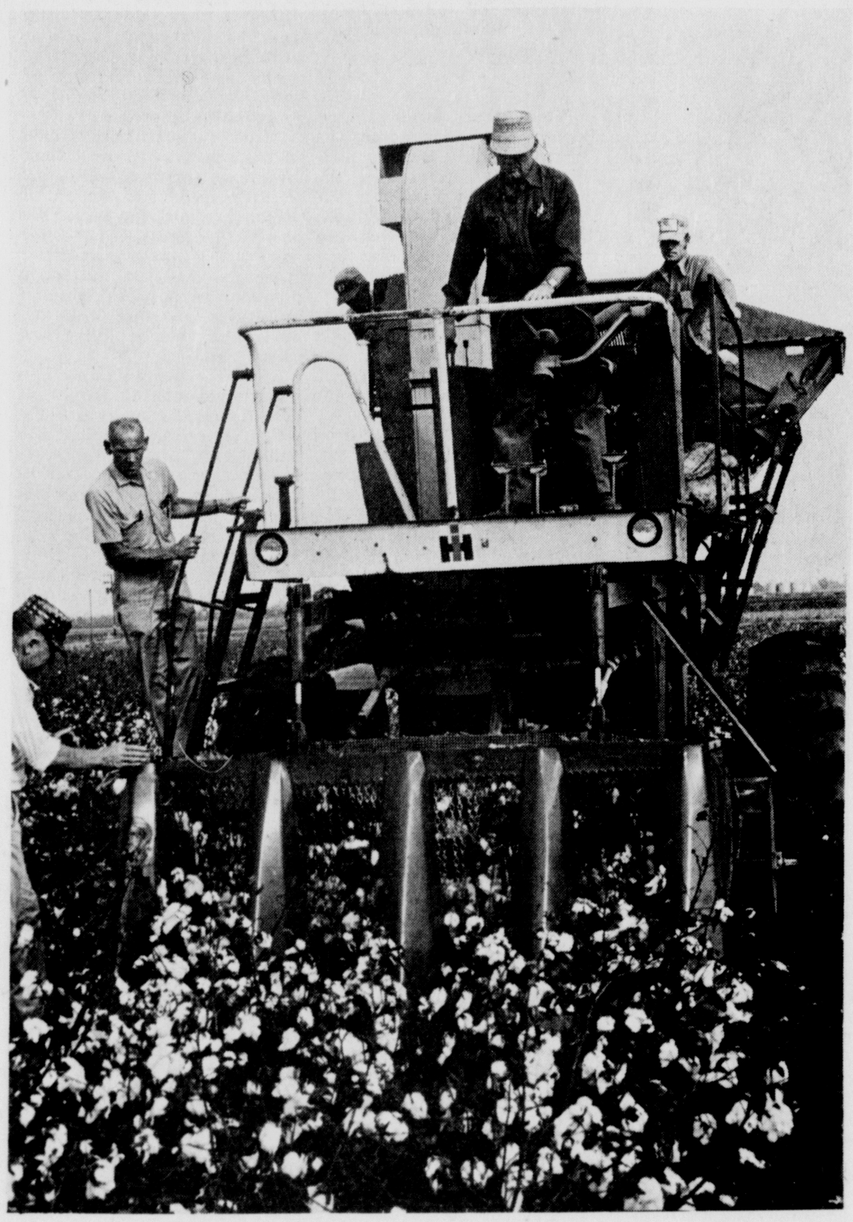

Thieves broke open the coin boxes in two coin-operated children's rides at the Big K Store, Highway 61 South, police reported today.

The theft apparently occurred sometime late Monday night or early Tuesday morning. Police said the amount of loss was not known.

Ford meets with Hirohito

TOKYO (AP) — President Ford began the first American presidential visit to Japan today by meeting with Emperor Hirohito and assuring Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka that Japan can count on "a stable supply of agricultural imports from the United States."

Ford invited the emperor to visit the United States next year, renewing an invitation first extended three years ago, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference the invitation was accepted.

Cotton harvester tested

This 20-inch-row cotton harvester is part of the new cotton culture being tested by scientists at the University of Missouri's Delta Center in Portageville. Watching workmen put it through its paces are William Sappenfield, cotton breeder, and Bill Boon, assistant superintendent, at the center. Boon, far right, who built the brush harvester, says the machine worked very well. Now all he needs is more 20-inch-row cotton to harvest, he says. Sappenfield is testing new varieties and cultural practices aimed at producing a short, coarse fiber crop that would be harvested ahead of the normal crop.

Cleaner necessary

An important part of the 20-inch-row cotton harvester being tested by scientists at the University of Missouri's Delta Center at Portageville, is this cleaner. Bill Boon, who built the harvester, explains that a brush harvester picks up more sticks, leaves and hulls than a spindle picker, so the cleaner is a necessity. In this year's tests, Boon says the cleaner didn't give him the cotton grade he would like to have had, so he'll work on the cleaner to improve it before next season.

Strike reduces bus traffic at local station

Traffic at the Greyhound Bus Station, Highway 61 South, has dropped considerably since the nationwide strike against the Greyhound Bus lines.

Buses from two other lines — St. Louis-Cape and Conner bus lines — still use the station on a daily basis, according to L. S. Stucker, ticket agent.

Stucker said the strike has reduced traffic from abut 20 bus stops a day to about five.

He said passengers can take other lines to their destination in other lines run the same routes as Greyhound.

The bus station will remain open from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The strike began at 1 p.m. Monday with negotiations between the firm and the Amalgamated Transit Union breaking off an hour later.

The union is demanding an across the board pay hike of 60 cents per hour. Bus drivers are asking a one cent per mile increase.

The old contract called for an average wage of $5.76 per hour or 21.8 cents a mile.

Union officials blamed the strike partly on disagreement over the length of a new contract and difficulty in bargaining for the first time as a nationwide unit. Previous contracts had been negotiated separately for drivers on either side of the Mississippi River.

Special session begins today

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Charged with trying to rejuvenate Missouri's sagging home market and providing some emergency funds for welfare, Missouri lawmakers returned to the Capitol today for a special legislative session.

The session was to open at 2 p.m.

Unless it concludes in a few weeks, legislators will find themselves spending most of the next seven months in Jefferson City.

Among the legislators working in the special session will be seven senators and 33 representatives who won't be back after Jan. 8 because they lost or resigned.

The special session must end at noon Jan. 8, when the new legislature takes over for a 5½-month session. Added work will come next month when some of the expected 1,300 bills will be introduced for the regular session.

The Division of Family services needs $25.9 million in appropriations to see it through the end of the fiscal year.

The session begins as reports from Washington show permits for housing starts throughout the nation in October were at their lowest since December of 1966. High interest rates were blamed, but in Missouri, the slump has been blamed on the restriction against charging interest above 8 per cent annually. No state has a lower rate.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond has said residential construction has fallen sharply in the first eight months of this year and construction unemployment is three times the general unemployment rate.

Bond can add anything at any time to the special session call, and two possibilities are financing of the new campaign spending law and revision of the majority rights law that was declared unconstitutional last week by the State Supreme Court because it did not follow constitutional provisions and amend each of the 100 or more sections stating an age—usually 21—as a qualifying factor.

The majority rights law lowered the age of majority to 18 except laws dealing with alcoholic beverages. The Supreme Court decision did not affect the right of 18-year-olds to vote.

Also facing the State Senate will be confirmation of about 100 appointments Bond made under reorganization of state government. The appointees must be confirmed before the Jan. 8 adjournment of the special session or they can't retain their offices.

A combination of factors caused the Division of Family Services to run out of money for state supplemental payments to the aged, blind and disabled under a new federal program. The division will be $1.9 million short of the money needed to make December payments.

Some legislators have disagreed with an attorney general's opinion saying funds cannot be transferred from a Medicaid program where there is a surplus.

At least two usury bills are ready for introduction. Committee sessions are expected to be held Wednesday and Thursday. The Senate plans to begin debate on a bill next Monday.

One bill, drafted in part by Alfred Sikes, director of the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, will be introduced by the House minority leader, Republican Robert Snyder of Kirkwood.

It removes the 8 per cent limit, and sets no limit, on first mortage real estate loans, loans to a corporation, business loans of $5,000 or more, and loans by redevelopment agencies.

All other loans between $500 and $5,000 would carry a 10 per cent interest ceiling.

It classifies a mobile home for a first deed of trust, or mortgage, without any interest ceiling. It says lending institutions must pay 3 per cent on money held in escrow, and allows only one "point" to be charged by the lender if the lender pays for repair or improvements before the home is sold.

The bill allows higher points if they are required by federal agencies which would secure the mortgage, such as the Farmers Home Administration.

Lenders are charging up to 15 points in the St. Louis area, Sikes said. A point is 1 per cent of the loan and is charged against the seller.

The bill also requires Sikes' department to compile reports to apprise legislators of the availability and cost of residen-

Bond set at $50,000 for Boley

Dwain Boley, 47, of Morley was arraigned today during Magistrate Court proceedings in the Sikeston city courtroom on a charge of first-degree murder stemming from the early morning shooting death of his son Monday at the family home.

Boley allegedly shot Danny Boley, 26, when the son tried to intervene in a fight between his parents about 2 a.m. He died 30 minutes later at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston of a bullet wound in the chest.

Boley's bond was set at $50,000. The case was continued to Nov. 26 to allow Boley time to obtain an attorney.

The Scott County Sheriff's office said that Boley and his wife had been drinking at the Eagles Club in Sikeston before the shooting. After returning home, the couple began fighting.

Mrs. Boley telephoned her son to come to the home and he was shot shortly after arriving. He was shot once with a .22-caliber pistol.

Two persons arraigned for burglary and stealing were Thurman Watson, 439 Sunset Drive, for an Oct. 16 burglary of the Eddie Mills home, 800 Ruth St., Houston Hemphill, 1405 W. North St., for a Nov. 5 burglary of the Gussie Brown home, 1509 W. North. Bond was set at $2,500 for Watson and $3,500 for Hemphill.

George Torres, Route Four, was bound over to appear in Circuit Court Nov. 29 on a charge of stealing a motorcycle from Hicks Garage, 512 E. Center St., On Oct. 20.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Robert Shelton of 301 Cary, Kennett, for failing to appear in court on a charge of non support.

Jerry Lee Summers, 230 Felker St., was given a one-year suspended sentence for stealing and placed on probation for two years.

William Cantrell Jr., Route Two, was fined $21.50 for excessive vehicle noise by acceleration.

A mental examination was allowed for Daniel Tippy, 611 Cleveland St. who is facing a charge of marijuana possession.

Cases continued to Nov. 26 included: Paul Barnes, bogus check; Margeuerite Darlene Shafer, 410 Dona St. stealing; and Lonetta Gillean, Jon Don Acres, bogus check.

Dexter plant does not plan move

DEXTER — Recent rumors that the International Hat Company Plant No. 2 would be moved from Dexter were silenced Monday night when Mayor Willis Conner read a letter from the Gene Goodson, the company president, to members of the City Council.

The letter stated that the company does plan to build a new plant at Piedmont, but this expansion will not affect the Dexter plant. The letter stated that plans now are under way to increase production at all plants. "Not only do we plan to stay in Dexter, we plan to grow larger," the president said. The new plant at Piedmont will employ 400 persons.

Mayor Conner told the council the railroad people were cooperative when he approached them and asked that a flashing signal be installed at the One Mile Road crossing. This action was taken following a recent accident at the crossing, which has been the scene of many accidents in the past. Approximately 200 vehicles per hour cross the tracks at this location and 33 school busses follow this route daily, Conner reported.

The council voted to decleare Nov. 29 as holiday for all city employes. This will allow employes a four-day Thanksgiving weekend.

Council members were asked to study a plan which, if accepted, would allow the city to participate in the Community Development Act. This would replace the Housing and Urban Development Act which has been discontinued.

To participate in the program the city would have to meet several requirements. One of these would be the updating of the city's comprehensive plan. The council will study the plan and make a recommendation at the Dec. 2 meeting.

In other action the council voted to install street lights at the intersection of Arvin Road and Cooper St., Arvin Road and One Mile Road, Arvin Road and Fram Road and Arvin Road and Two Mile Road.

The council also voted to purchase a hoist and bed at a cost of $1,713.80 for a recently acquired truck.

Mayor Conner presented the council with the monthly auditor's report and noted that 60 per cent of all funds are invested. The annual audit will be presented at the Dec. 2 meeting.

City Attorney Paul McGee was asked to write a letter to the Cotton Belt Railroad protesting the excessive speed of trains through the city's east side. This action was taken following several complaints from area residents.

Planning and Zoning to meet

The Planning and Zoning Commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the City Administrative Building.

The agenda will include discussion of the federal government's flood plain insurance program which Sikeston will have to join.

The flood insurance program was once voluntary, but city officials have been told that if the city does not join, Sikeston could lose future federal grants and housing loans.

If the city does adopt the program, houses in some areas of the city will have to be built above the 100-year flood level to comply with regulations.

Ben Stephenson, a representative from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, will attend tonight's meeting.

State will try to comply with extradition request

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri authorities have agreed to comply as far as they legally can with a request by Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller concerning the extradition of a doctor accused of killing his former wife in Kennett, Mo.

Hugh Sprague, legal assistant to Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond, said he would send to Waller's office statements from Dunklin County Prosecutor Charles H. Baker and Circuit Judge Flake L. McHaney.

Waller has said he would not sign an extradition warrant for Dr. Norman Garrison of Corinth, Miss., Until Bond agreed that bail would be available so Garrison could return to Corinth during the trial to see his patients.

Baker said the court could not be bound by a promise, but he said he would do everything he could to see that the $25,000 bond set Oct. 7 is not raised.

McHaney withdrew his order for a warrant for Garrison's arrest, charing Garrison with contempt of court in connection with the divorce case. The judge said the contempt of court citation would wait until after Garrison's trial on a murder charge.

Lee Ann Garrison,32, ex-wife of Garrison and daughter of a prominent Kennett family, was shot in the head and beaten at her stately home near Kennett last summer.

Ambulance will service North Scott County

BENTON — J. A. Chronister, chairman of the North Scott County Ambulance Service board of directors, has announced the purchase of a 1972 model ambulance for $5,950 from Miller-Meteor Coach Sales of Memphis, Tenn. Delivery is expected around Dec. 1, and the ambulance should be ready for use by Dec. 10, Chronister said.

The County Court allocated funds for the ambulance, Chronister said, and in a letter to him dated Thursday, gave him authority to make the purchase.

At an earlier court session, Chronister and a representative of the Miller-Meteor company presented the ambulance to the court for inspection. At that time Chronister told the board that the amublance will be brought up to 100 per cent shape, and that "it's in good shape now."

"This is a good price for an ambulance," Chronister said. "I've talked with the men who operated this machine, and at this pricce it would be a bargain."

He also told the court that it would meet or exceed all state specifications, and that when the new ambulance from the state is delivered in May, this one would be a good back-up ambulance.

The county court presently has a contract with a private Cape Girardeau firm, Cape County Private Ambulance Service, Inc., to provide emergency ambulance service for north Scott County. Chronister said he expects the ambulance service for north Scott County. Chronister said he expects the ambulance to be ready to serve the people when the contract with the Cape Girardeau firm expires at the first of the year.

Chronister said that the North Scott County Ambulance Service is a purely voluntary organization. The directors were appointed by the county court and serve without pay, Chronister said, and all the drivers and attendants are volunteers. The bookkeeping will be done without pay by members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Chronister said.

The drivers will be paid $100 per month and the attendants $3 per trip plus expenses. This is not meant to be a full salary, Chronister said, but just to provide a little encouragement for the volunteers.

The shifts of the drivers will be coordinated with their regular jobs, and the ambulance will be located in a place for quickest convenience of drivers on duty.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

People who never make a mistake also never do much of anything.

.....

While attending the Missouri Press Association in St. Louis I was talking to a lady there and one of the men passed by that I wanted her to meet and I couldn't think of his name. She looked at me and said, "You know when they get the same age that you are, you spend half of the time trying to recall names and the other half in the privy," and I thought she has it right on down, that is exactly right.

.....

I attended the Missouri - Kansas Editors Meeting in Kansas City Sunday and Monday, November 10 and 11. It was really a wasted trip as far as I was concerned, although the AP representative from Washington entertained us. Too much of the time was taken up by a Kansas man who was interested in polls and since we are of the opinion that polls ought to be conducted like the Dunklin County Democrat, the Kennett paper, they run it in the paper and give you a chance to cut it out and vote what you want, or whoever you want to vote for. I did enjoy the luncheon paid for by the Kansas City Star and I asked the main man if he brought the checkbook with him and he said no, he brought the American Express card, which would charge it and would give him three months to get the money, which I thought was pretty clever.

A concerned mother writes us, she signed he name, but she asked that we do not use her name, so we are going to use her letter as an editorial because we think it is a good one. Of course, I don't see a thing in the letter that would keep her from signing her name, but that is her desire and we are going to abide by it. Generally, I don't even handle these letters when they come in with no signature or asking me not to use their name, I generally just put them in a drawer and a year from now I throw them away, but here it goes as an editorial:

Dear Unconcerned Parents:

I have almost hit your child on several occasions with my car while he or she was riding a bicycle. Last evening was the most recent. Your son was riding his bike home from delivering papers. It was 6 p.m. and he was dressed in dark brown. The bike had no reflectors, light or reflector strips. As I came around the corner, there he was. A dark blob in front of my car, not more than 10 feet from me. I swerved and missed him.

I have met your daughter making a left hand turn from a side street into the oncomming traffic. By jamming on my brakes I was able to avoid her.

I also met your small child riding a friend on her small bike as she was falling from the sidewalk into the street.

Had I not anticipated what was happening, your child and her friend would have hit the side of my car and most likely gone under my rear wheel.

Please show some concern for your children. Inspect their bikes and see that they have reflectors on the back and sides, reflector strips on sides and on the pedals, and that if they are out at night to have a light. I would also like to see you enforce the proper rules for riding their bikes. They should ride with traffic and not against it. I can't think of anything more frightening than to see a bike coming at you an you have no place to turn.

OIL LEGISLATION ONLY FUEL FOR THE FIRE?

The energy crisis, brought to a head by the Arab oil embargo just a few months ago, seems to have been relegated to the status of an unpleasant but fading memory in the public mind.

Congress, too, appears to have an equally short memory if one is to judge by its contributions to "Project Independence"- the great government- inspired effort aimed at making the United States self- sufficient in energy by 1980.

So far, the nation's legislators have mandated national year- round Daylight Saving Time, a measure of dubious merit in conserving energy which they are considering modifying.

A bill authorizing the Alaskan pipeline was passed (after a five- year delay) and should be bringing some significant, though hardly adequate, amounts of oil to the U.S. market by late 1977 at the earliest.

The 55- mile- per- hour limit has helped the country cut gasoline consumption but there is evidence that it is being increasingly ignored by morotists and enforced decreasingly by authorities.

There is no lack of energy, however, when it comes to legislation aimed at reforming the oil industry. Bills abound in Congress, ranging from doing away with the depletion allowance to eliminating the foreign tax credit for U.S. companies to setting up a federal oil and gas corporation in direct competition with oil companies here.

The latter idea, favored by Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, (D-Ill), would put the government in the oil and gas business ostensibly to increase competition by acting as a yardstick for the industry on such things as prices. Something like a TVA for petroleum.

The petroleum industry views this possibility with a great deal of alarm and as industries usually do in such cases, is attempting to show that what is bad for it is bad for America.

A federal oil and gas corporation is only the tip of the iceberg of government interference with private industry, oil spokesmen warn. Other industries may be next- auto, steel, drug, banking and insurance, for examples.

If nothing else, just the threat of government competition seems to have served the useful purpose of keeping the oil industry on its toes. The important thing to note, however, is that the Stevenson proposal, like much of the other legislation aimed at the oil industry, whatever its merits, literally does nothing to add a drop of oil to the nation's reserves.

No matter how one feels about the petroleum industry, the oil companies constitute about the only sector working positively to solve the nation's energy problems, particularly with their massive commitments of capital for increased exploration and development.

It is estimated that this year the U.S. petroleum industry will reinvest a record $18.7 billion, an increase of 51 per cent over last year's $12.4 billion.

Of that $18.7 billion, $10 billion will be put back into the ground in the effort to find and develop not only oil and gas but other sources of energy, such as shale oil and coal.

In a recent talk, Charles J. DiBona, executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute, recommended a simple test for proposed legislation affecting oil industry operations. Constructive proposals, he said, should result in a "yes" answer to either or both of the following questions:

First, will the proposal encourage greater efficiency in the use of energy? Second, will the proposal result in increased energy supply?

It's a simple but useful yardstick that government as well as the oil industry must use if "Project Independence" is to be realized.

LET'S NOT GO TOO FAR

Inventors are among the folk heroes of America. Thomas Edison, Henry Ford, Eli Whitney, and George Washington Carver are only a few among many who are as well known as the best of our statesmen, generals, and athletes.

Thousands of other inventors achieved little fame as the result of their work, but they did achieve wealth and the satisfaction of knowing they had made a contribution to progress.

The patent law which enabled them to protect their inventions for seventeen years so they could be assured of personal reward, has served the public interest in giving incentive to potential inventors. Also, it has made possible public disclosure of inventions so other inventors have been able to utilize new discoveries.

Now Congress is considering revising the patent law to clarify many of the provisions, eliminate ambiguities, allow arbitration in some instances instead of litigation, and allow applicants to seek an injunction against competition during an examination period.

Several bills have been introduced. Congress should take time to consider carefully the various proposals so that patents do not become too expensive, but reasonable fees are charged; so that patents are neither too easy nor too difficult to obtain; and, above all, so that the public continues to benefit from technological progress which results from inventive genius.

ALUMINUM RECYCLING BENEFITS TWO WAYS

Reynolds Metals Co. has recycled 2.5 billion cans and paid the public more than $10 million since it began its program of collecting household aluminum scrap, the company reports.

In June it increased from 10 to 15 cents a pound the amount paid for scrap. There are roughly twenty cans in a pound.

Energy savings is one of the primary objectives in recycling, according to David P. Reynolds, executive vice president and general manager. "Each time we recycle aluminum we save 95 per cent of the energy that would be required to make primary aluminum, and aluminum can be recycled over and over again," he said.

COMMON SENSE OF HORSE TRADING

Every horse trader knows that you can never make a good deal if your eagnerness to buy is plain to see. If your adversary -- and horse trading is an adversary procedure -- suspects how badly you need his over-priced, broken-down nag, he'll run the price up sky high.

The few nations with surplus oil now have the industrial world in that position, like a vise. Japan and werstern Euope cannot exist as viable societies without that oil. The United States needs a small proportion to prevent depression and probable political ruin. The oil-exporting nations, like the horse trader, know all this. The facts cannot hidden.

What can be done is to reverse the curse which put the United States in this position. We crippled our own oil and gas industry, encouraging exploration and production elsewhere. Now we pay the price.

The independent oil men, who find 85 percent of the new reserves in the U.S., should be encouraged and set free to explore, not beaten down with punitive acts and regulations aimed at punishing profits and hurting foreign oil companies and dictators who are beyond reach anyway. Foreign producers will lower their prices when our traders no longer are on hands and knees begging. Bureaucrats do not find oil. All they do is drive the independents out of business, increase the cost, and reduce discoveries. Surely a few influential Senators and Congressmen remember something about horse trading.

THAT'S GOOD— THAT'S BAD

WASHINGTON — Everywhere I travel in this great land I am asked the same question about the economy: "Why doens't the government do something?" The answer, as everyone in Washington knows, is that the government doesn't know what to do.

I was talking to my friend Baradash, a high government official, the other day.

"The price of meat should go down next month," he said

"That's good."

"No, that's bad. If meat goes down, the cattlemen are going to get sore and shoot their calves. You see, they're paying more for everything and getting less for what they sell."

"That's bad," I said.

"It could be good if we could hold the line on meat so wages in other industries would not go up. The real problem is fertilizer. There's a shortage of fertilizer because there is a shortage of oil. Of course, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates cut the price of their oil last week."

"That's good."

"Not really. At the same time they cut the price of oil they raised taxes on the oil companies, and it may cost us more for oil now than it did before."

"That's bad."

"And then we can't forget the coal srike in this country, can we?"

"You're really a joy to talk to, Bardash."

"Things aren't all that bad," he said. "Interest rates are going down."

"That's good." I brightened up.

"It won't solve our inflation problem, though. If money is easier to get, prices will probably go up again."

"That's bad."

"The important thing is that this country has been consuming too much. We've got to get people to conserve and not spend as if there were no tomorrow."

"It would be a good thing if they did," I agreed.

"It also could be a bad thing. If Americans didn'tspend as if there were no tomorrow, people will lose their jobs, and then they won't be able to buy new automobiles. If we don't sell any automobiles in this country, we're going to have a real recession, and then we'll have to raise taxes to take care of all the people who are out of work."

"That's bad."

"It could be good if we taxed gasoline because that would be the best way to cut down on our oil imports. If we could cut down on oil imports, we could have a better chance for a favorable balance of trade."

"That would be good," I said.

"It would be, but no one has any money to buy our exports, except possibly food. . If we export our food, prices in the supermarkets will go soaring and we'll have a revolution at home."

"Baradash, you represent the government. Isn't there anything you people can do to stave off disaster;"

"Well, I'm wearing my WIN button, aren't I?" he said.

"That's good," I said.

"No," he replied. "That's bad. The damn thing cost me a buck, and it keeps making holes in my suites."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

'Finest Hour' For Paper Shufflers

WASHINGTON — Neither war, nor pestilence, nor terrorist attack can stanch the processing of government forms.

A few weeks ago, for example, seven terrorists grabbed eight hostages in the Dominican Republic. Among the prisoners was Barbara Hutchinson, who headed the local U. S. information office.

For two long weeks, the insurgents held out, demanding $1 million ransom and the release of 38 political prisoners from Dominican jails. Throughout the ordeal, U. S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch and other officials negotiated intermittently with the terrorists.

The lives of the hostages hung in the balance. But among the paperclip crowde, the event merely generated extra paperwork.

There were forms to fill out, for example, to account for the food and drink, which were delivered daily to the guerrillas and their hostages.

Much of the food came from the U. S. embassy which, unhappily, had no authorizatin to feed desperados. Who would pay for the vittles, and how was the expense to be justified?

Hurwitch though the money should be taken from the embassy's "representation allowance," a fund that is supposed to finance parties, receptions and similar soirees "in U.S. interests."

The trouble was that the voucher forms simply weren't worded to accomodage the occasion.

In the wee hours one morning during the siege, Ambassador Hurwitch, exasperated over the paperwork, decided to let the State Dept. wrestle with the problem. . "This might keep Washington busy for awhile," he suggested brightly to his sleepy assistants.

Thereupon, Hurwitch composed a tongue-in-cheek cable, carefully classified it "Confidential," and fired it off to the home office.

"Dept. should be aware," states the classified cable, "that most of the sandwiches that have been delivered (to the terrorists) ... are product of the Ambassador's cuisine. The soft drinks have been on him ...

"After perusing all pertinent current regulations as well as studying all possible historical precedents which might enlighten, we regretfully confess that we are unable ... to complete the representation voucher. We just don't seem to be able to get the boxes on the form to fit the occasion.

"Such fundamental questions arise as to whether the kidnapers as well as the hostages should be claimed. Can we properly maintain that feeding kidnapers is a social function that promotes U.S. interests?

"Among the hostages, there is a Spanish priest of the Domincan order; how do we feel about him, representation-wise? It should be noted that although this priest is referred to as 'he,' when the question of obtaining the release of the women was discussed with President Balaguer, the Spanish Ambassador quickly pointed out that his client wore skirts. If the priest is considered a legitimate representation claim, under what sex should we list him ...

"We would be most appreciative if the (State Dept.) would put its talent to work and provide us guidance on filling out the representation voucher before too many more sandwiches are eaten."

HUNGER AND HATE: In the impoverished parts of the world, 700 million people are suffering debilitating hunger. Many of them will die of starvation.

The American people, of course, have donated more than their share to feed the hungry. Each year, the United States gives away or sells at nominal cost $1 billion worth of grain to poor countries.

In contrast, the greedy oil-producing nations aren't giving away oil or lowering the price for poor countries.

Yet, when the media of the world starts to depict starving millions, consider the kind of hatred that could be directed toward well-fed Americans.

It is estimated that the livestock in America consume enough foodstuffs each year to feed 1.3 billion people. Put another way, if Americans were to switch to the diet of the Chinese, the United States could feed almost one billion people more than it does. Or to put it still another way, the average American uses up five times as much agricultural resources as the average Indian, Nigerian or Colombian.

Americans put enough fertilizer on their lawns and parks to make up India's fertilizer shortage. With this fertilizer shortage, India could grow the grain it needs to save perhaps millions from starvation.

The grain that goes into the alcohol that Americans drink could feed 20 million people a year. All it would take to prevent mass starvation in the world would be a three per cent reduction in grain cnsumption by the American people -- in other words, just a few meatless days and a little less booze.

The alternative, almost certainly, will be a growing hatred for Americans. The consequences of that hatred, the food politics that would emerge, would result inevitably in anti-American alliances, embargoes on raw materials, revolutions, mob violence.

Not Political Pornography: Goldberg-Lindsay team played it rough with Rockefeller, too...

WASHINGTON —As the chap who introduced Arthur J. Goldberg and Bobby Kennedy to each other at an up-front table during the banquet honoring my good friend, the late Sen. William Knowland back in 1958, I do think I qualify as a well-rounded eclectic newsman -- and as an authority on Arthur and his grievances.

I've known labor lawyer-Secretary of Labor-Supreme Court Justice-U.N. Ambassador Goldberg much of my life. And I've read Vic Lasky's "biography" which Arthur has called "pornographic." If his is pornography, peep shows and lewd literature would be out of business.

I wouldn't exactly nominate Vic's shears and paste pot job for a Nobel prize in literature. But it does Goldberg no real injustice.

Certainly it doesn't fall into the "dirty tricks" category of political sabotage of assassination.

I covered that 1970 Rockefeller-Goldberg gubernatorial campaign in New York -- all the way from Rocky's pizza-pie wolfing to Arthur's egg roll eating with Liberal Party leaders in my favorite Chinese restaurant.

Goldberg was a ferocious infighter. He played it tough. Throughout 1969-70 he worked with some of the state's shrewdest politicalized labor leaders and the Democratic party's famed county chairmen -- from Tammany Hall to Troy. Confidential public opinion polls showed him the way. He grabbed the popular issues and followed the young, the anti-war crowd, the religious stresses and all that goes into a campaign. Actually, he was never a New Yorker and I dubbed his political drive the "making of a resident."

For Arthur the stakes were big -- namely nomination for Vice President of the U.S. n the Democratic ticket in '72 or '76 if he won the N.Y. governshrship first.

I'm no bushbeater for Nelson Rockefeller. Actually he owes me $2. Absolutely. But the ex-governor is on record as saying about Goldberg in April 1970: "He has been a friend of mine. He is a fine lawyer and an able mediator and negotiator ... We welcome his coming to New . York."

But this was a gut fight. And Rockefeller wanted to make it big with labor in anticipation of some future race for the presidency. And "The Rock" had his own CREEP. It was called the Committee for the Reelection of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller. It was housed by tradition in the Hotel Rosoevelt on Manahttan's Madison Ave. It got hysterical. Like some WPA project it decided to "make work." So someone high in the inner circle passed word on to lawyer John Wells that a hack job should be done on Godberg. The rest is history.

But it's no hack job. Arthur is described as "extraordinarily birth" and "ambitious." Most of Vic's dull book is well documented. So why the brouhaha?

There was some rough stuff thrown at Rockefeller, too. Everybody appears to forget that ex-Mayor John Lindsay was in this fight -- and flayed the governor.. Don't be deceived by Rocky's genial "Hiya, fella." He's a very tough and stubborn man. And oftimes thin-skinned. And he rides his people hard. I know one of them who got the shakes whenever Rocky called. My friend never knew if he had blown the campaign or was to be flown to some end of the nation on a political mission or was about to receive an accolade.

Rockefeller had to approve everything everybody did. So when the book project came up needled as he was by the Goldberg forces, he okayed it and forgot it.

I therefore don't believe Vic Lasky's 199-page "biography" is the issue at all. There is an obvious effort to create the confirmation hearings in the image of Sen. Ervin's Watergate drama. This is the opening of the 1976 campaign.

There is no doubt either in the highest New York state Republican Committeeheadquarters directed by Judge Dick Rosenbaum, or the national GOP committee, that if the fates permit it the 1976 ticket will be Ford and Rockefeller. The embattled Vice President-designate will, two years hence, be able to "pour in vigor, money, manpower and high-geared political machinery," says one national Republican leader.

And he will bring with him, and only he can, strong national labor support with AF L-CIO president George Meany for a starter, they believe. There's no doubt that Meany would pick his close friend Nelson as President if he (Meany) had his choice. Rockefeller always has had surprisingly widespread labor support in unions of the ultra-left wing of the old CIO, of the white collar and professional pursuits as well as among the hard hats. Such support would split the Democratic labor forces in the next presidential go-round. So perhaps the dirty trick is being played on Rockefeller -- not Godberg.

ON OLDER HOMES

Every year, twice as many American families buy older (or previously-occupied homes) than they do new houses. Depending upon the age of the home, naturally, there may be some unknown risks in the area of construction, plumbing, or wiring. However, these can be obviated by a professional inspection.

But there are also some major advantages to buying an older home. It normally contains far more space than a new home in the same price range, and there are a great many more older homes than new homes for sale which gives you a wider opportunity to make a good buy. Also, many older homes have a charm, location, and graciousness that can't be found in a new home.

True, a new home will give you fewer maintenance problems and more modern built-in appliances, however, there is much to be said for the older home too. The best approach is to look at both and weigh the merits. We'll be happy to show you a fine selection of both older and new homes to choose from.

Ferrell named to committee

Mayor Frank Ferrell has been appointed to the Missouri Municipal League's 1975 Legislative Committee according to a recent announcement by Wesley M. Smith, president of the Jefferson City based league.

The committee reviews and recommends to the league's board of directors current state legislation not covered in the 1975 Municipal Policy Statement. The committee also provides assistance in contacting legislators and testifying on key league priority bills.

Mayor Ferrell has previously served on the legislative committee which also drafts the annual police statement.

Chamber board members elected

CHARLESTON — The election of four board members for the Charleston Chamber of Commerce was announced Thursday by George Simmons, president of the chamber.

Voting by mail ballot, the chamber membership elected Art Wallhausen, James Moreton, David Brewer and Miss Frances Daniel to the board for hree-year terms.

Three additional board members will be appointed for one-year terms by the 1975 president, Gary Forsee of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Other officers will be elected in December, Simmons said.

7 treated

Seven accident patients were treated and released Monday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Treated were: Cynthia Caple, 18, New Madrid, sprained left foot in fall; William Isbell, 2, Sikeston, cut left fifth toe on glass; Fontell Stroud, 60, Charleston, bruised right leg in car accident; Alice Curry, 39, Sikeston, strained back in car accident.

Patricia Brashear, 19, Sikeston, bruised right hip in fall at work; John Simmons, 27, New Madrid, strained lower back at work; and Harry Melton, 13, Sikeston, sprained right ankle while playing ball.

Medieval Origin

Freemasonry evolved from the guilds of stonemasons and cathedral builders of the Middle Ages. With the decline of cathedral building, some lodges began to accept honorary members to bolster their declining rolls. Beginning with the practices and symbols of the old guilds, Freemasonry developed the rites and ceremonies of its present-day chivalric brotherhood.

Dr. Finch to practice again

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Raymond Bernard Finch finally can hang up his shingle in El Dorado Springs and put an "R." Before his name again.

Monday Finch was mailed a certificate of registration, No. 35372, Authorizing him to practice medicine in the state.

John A. Hailey, executive secretary of the State Board of Registration for the Healing Arts, said the board had no further recourse after the Missouri Supreme Court refused, 6-1, last Tuesday, to hear an appeal by the board from the State Court of Appeals in Kansas City, which ruled in favor of Finch.

The acted ended a two-year legal battle, following refusal by the board in 1972 to allow Finch to take the medical examination because of his murder conviction in Los Angeles for killing his second wife in 1959. A circuit court order forced the board to allow Finch to take the test, which he passed last June, and the board appealed.

Finch was convicted with his receptionist, Carole Tregoff, in the murder, and lost his California license. At the time, he owned a hospital in West Covina, a Los Angeles suburb.

Finch was paroled in 1971 and moved to El Dorado Springs, 100 miles south of Kansas City. He has worked as an X-ray technician at the Cedar County Hospital.

Miss Tregoff has been paroled and is living in California.

Finch becomes the fourth doctor in the town of 3,300.

Hailey said the certificate of registration is all that's necessary pending formal signing of a license by the board at its February meeting.

"The court gave him a license, and our attorney feels he could have begun practice when the court ruled," Hailey said.

Finch, 56, plans to join Dr. Harry Langeluttig in a practice. They hope to eventually set up a medical center.

"I think the decision of the courts and the support I've had...Have been very encouraging for the entire process of rehabilitation," Finch said.

Hailey said he called a news conference to clear up any misunderstanding about procedures the Healing Arts Board would follow.

State law says the board can deny a license on grounds of bad moral character, and a felony conviction is listed as grounds for such a finding. However, the courts ruled that evidence shows Finch has been rehabilitated and is of good moral character.

A new law eliminates a felony conviction as grounds for license denial provided the applicant has been pardoned. The law took effect Aug. 13. Finch has not been pardoned by California.

"Our law is in effect overturned," Hailey said.

Hailey said he thought the case was far-reaching and "will affect other states."

He said he had received inquiries from Nevada and Massachusetts.

The certificate says Finch is registered to practice from July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975. Next June, Finch can have his license renewed simply by sending in an application, plus $10.

Pure Water

The waters of the Amazon River are among the purest in the world. Water tested by a joint U.S.-Brazilian expedition were found to have a chemical purity nearly equal to that of distilled water and greater than tap water in the United States. One reason for the water's purity is that the heavy rainfall in the river basin has almost completely washed the soil of readily soluble minerals.

New piano bought for nursing home

The residents of the Sikeston Convalescent Center will now be able to make music together with a recently acquired piano.

Money will be raised by the Sunlighters Volunteer Group, through bake sales, garage sales and turkey raffles. However, donations are welcomed by the staff and personnel at the center.

To be sure each resident is visited by Santa Claus, a gift repository is now open for donations of practical gifts.

A November birthday party for residents sponsored by the Sunlighters will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday. The Moderne Chorale from Sikeston High School under the direction of Gordon Beavery, will present a program.

The Sunlighters have added a male member to the previously all female group. G. H. Rogers is the pioneer and said he wants specifically to work with the male residents.

Mrs. G. H. Rogers and Mrs. Raymond Page are also new members.

The Sunlighters will meet at 2 p.m., Dec. 10 at the Sikeston Convalescent Center.

Yarn balls glimmer on holiday trees

Deck your tree with balls of a glimmering yarn of Creslan acrylic fiber and nylon which has the right look for a tree — particularly one without lights. And there's nothing for toddlers or pets to break.

TO MAKE THE BALLS: Cut two cardboard circles to desired size of pompon and cut a hole about ¼" in center of each. For balls 1 to 1½ inches in diameter — cut 4 lengths of Glimmer yarn, each 3 yards long. Place circles together and wind yarn through center and over edges. Continue until circles are completely covered and opening is filled in.

Cut yarn between two circles and slip length of yarn between the cardboards winding it very tightly around several times; knot leaving ends long enough to tie to tree. Remove circles. Fluff pompon and trim. (You can work with two colors at a time or you can make designs by sectioning off your circle with different colors. A plastic yarn needle makes the going easier once the hole in center begins to fill up.)

Ann Landers

Husband prefers to keep pet cat over stopson

Dear Ann Landers: People think you make up letters. Well, after this one I don't know what the Doubting Thomases will say, but so help me God it's real.

I'm in a second marriage (his first) and I thought I knew R very well before I made the step. He seemed very fond of my son (now age six) and everything looked beautiful. We were married five months ago and R moved into our apartment with his cat. It looked like a wonderful life ahead for all of us.

A few weeks ago my son broke out in a rash. When he became asthmatic I took him to the doctor. The verdict: Donnie is allergic to eggs and cats.

When I told my husband he said, "Let's start looking for a foster home for the boy. I could never give up Chessie." I didn't think I heard right and replied, lightheartedly, "You've got to be kidding." He shot back, "I've never been more serious in my life." I controlled myself admirably while R explained the advantages of keeping the cat and getting rid of Donnie. (Less work, less expensive, less emotional trauma, no sitter problems, etc.)

After I made it plain that I was horrified by his suggestion and would never give up Donnie, my husband grudgingly agreed to take Chessie to his mother's house "until Donnie gets better."

The cat went yesterday but there has been very little communication between us ever since. Did I marry a nut? -- Boggled in Brentwood

Dear Boggled: Probably.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have decided to let you settle this. Our daughter Nancy, 14, is the complete opposite of her 16-year-old sister. We can't figure out what we did wrong.

Nancy lies, has a terrible temper, won't listen to anyone, and fights with her older sister constantly. She does poorly in school and is always in trouble with the teachers. We have tried counseling but it hasn't helped.

My husband's sister, Ruth, who lives 500 miles from here, is the only person in the world who can get along with this incorrigible girl. Ruth has asked us to allow Nancy to go live with her for awhile. She teaches school and Nancy would be a student there. The girl wants to go. My husband and I don't think his well-meaning, big-hearted sister understands what she's getting into. What do you say, Ann? -- Bothered and Bewildered

Dear B & B: I say let Nancy go The experiment will be good for all of you.

Your husband's sister sounds like a gem. She might change the course of Nancy's life. Please let me hear from you in six months. I'd like to know how things are going.

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the man who referred to himself as "mature" (he wrote because he was undecided about whether or not to marry a woman with "gross legs") really got to me. It seems that although they had gone together for over a year, he saw her only in pantsuits and long gowns.

I wonder if he thought to have her teeth checked. And what's with YOU, that you'd print such a stupid thing? Isn't it enough that everyone who writes in is nutty as a fruitcake? Must you publish such every bit of nonsense? -- Ho-Hum

Dear Hum: Did you say everyone who writes in is nutty as a fruitcake? I don't agree, but thanks for your letter.

Confidential to Congratulations For Admitting You Were Wrong: It's the least I can do. I've had to eat my words many times and I've discovered that humble pie can be a highly nourishing diet supplement.

Moths can nibble on wools, furs

CHICAGO, Ill. — Clothes moths, which in olden days were a household pest mostly in May and June, today are a yearr-around problem. In steam-heated homes their ravages persist right around the calendar.

It is estimated that moths cause some $200 million in damage every year. Incidentally, it is not the moths themselves that cause the damage. The actual culprits are the tiny worm-like larvae that hatch from the eggs laid by the moths.

Ruth Anne McKeown, consumer information specialist for a floor wax company, points out that the moth larvae prefer woolens, especially if they are soiled and spotted, but will also eat furs, feathers and even cotton and rayon.

Good housekeeping is one of the best defenses against moths, according to Miss McKeown. Rugs that are regularly vacuumed and clothes that are kept spotfree are not likely to be attacked. Moths like to feed and breed in cracks in the floor and around baseboards where lint collects. These should be carefully vacuumed.

Closets where clothes are kept should be thoroughly cleaned at least once a year. In the process, spray the interior of the closet -- including shelves, floor and baseboards -- with a reliable moth proofer. All clothes should be aired and brushed before being returned to the closet.

Before storing out-of-season clothes -- and blankets and other woolens -- be sure they are immaculately clean and sprayed with moth proofer. Be sure to get the spray into seams and folds. The interiors of garment bags and boxes used to store clothes also should be sprayed.

Such a routine will thwart the moths and save you money.

Color TV sets will turn on loved ones on Christmas

Looking for satisfactory answers to what to give those family names high on your Christmas gift list this year?

Then go electronic. Give the gift of colorful sight and sound. Give one of the new, advanced color television sets.

As it may have been some years since you shopped for a color TV set, it is important to know that today's screen sizes vary — even from those of several years back. One idea is to give a set with a screen size as close as possible to the one it may be replacing.

Buying helps

If this is your first-time purchase of a color set, then here are some down-to-earth helps:

- The 17-inch diagonal screen size with 150 square inches of picture is practical for small family use or as a second set.
- The 19-inch diagonal screen size with 185 square inches of picture comes in table models, and this year in consoles. The table model is recommended for second or third set use, the console as the main receiver for the viewing area where space is limited.
- The 25-inch diagonal screen size has 315 square inches of picture. It is in table models, full base consoles and combinations. These sets are suggested for use in the living room, family room or home viewing area wherever the decor dictates.

TENNIS

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — American Nancy Gunter advanced to the third round of the South African Open Tennis Championships with a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Karin Boshoff.

DETROIT — A group of investors headed by tennis promoter William H. Bereman has purchased the Detroit Loves of World Team Tennis and will move the franchise to Indianapolis.

Big 8 coaches predict winner

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Big Eight Conference basketball coaches predicted Sunday that Kansas will repeat as the league champion.

Seven of the eight coaches converged on Kansas City for their annual November meeting and met with the news media. Sox Walseth of Colorado, the dean of Big Eight coaches, did not attend because of a hernia operation Friday.

"Kansas has to be an overwhelming favorite," said Oklahoma Coach Joe Ramsey. "Everybody should be in the race with Kansas the standout. The league continues to improve each year and be better balanced. This year will be no exception."

Of his own team, boasting star Alvan Adams, Ramsey said, "Anytime you have an Alvan Adams, I believe that you have a good shot at the title."

Coach Joe Cipriano of Nebraska asserted that "everybody's got to pick Kansas as the No. 1 choice but I'm sure they're going to have trouble replacing Tom Kivisto. I suppose you have to give Oklahoma the second shot with Adams as good as he is.

"I think we'll hve the quickest team in the conference."

Walseth sent word he thinks the Jayhawks "are going to win."

Colorado's chances received a severe blow Sunday when Dave Logan, the Buffs' No. 2 scorer and rebounder last year, had knee surgery resulting from an injury in the Oklahoma State football game Saturday. He will be lost to the Buff cagers for the season.

Norm Stewart, the Missouri coach, pointed to Kansas as the 1975 champion and added, "There should be some balance but when you look at a favorite ..."

Stewart said the Tigers do not have a strong, proven, quality basketball player and lack physical strength but added, "We think we can have a good team."

Kansas Coach Ted Owens admitted the Jayhawks' biggest problem was replacing Kivisto.

"Logikally, we should be favored," said Owens. "We were 13-1 last year but we didn't dominate the league that much. We won some close games. I think we can come up with a quarterback to replace Kivisto."

The Jayhawks have a veteran team returning, losing only Kivisto. Returning are such proven players as Roger Morningstar, Rick Suttle, Danny Knight, Dale Greenlee, Norm Cook and Tommie Smith.

Ken Trickey of Iowa State, only new coach in the conference, said he didn't know too much about the other clubs but that his cyclones would be "pretty good. We'll try to run and shoot the ball and play a pressure-type defense."

Trickey succeeds the late Maury John.

Lilbourn, Delta C-7 capture tourney wins

WARDELL — Number one seeded Lilbourn and third seeded Delta C-7 moved into the winning bracket of the North Pemiscot Tournament Monday night with convincing victories. The Panthers turned back East Prairie by a score of 84-59 while the Chargers downed Pemiscot County 72-54.

East Prairie found the going tough from the start of the game. The Panthers opened the tourney with good ball handling and sound scoring, going ahead in the first period 19-10. Consistent hitting kept the Lilbourn team ahead during the second quarter, although the Eagles dumped in 20 markers At the break, Lilbourn led by 10 points.

The half-time break did nothing to cool the Panthers, as they went on to rip the nets for 24 points in the third quarter. The Eagles could not contain the Lilbourn squad and had to suffer a first round defeat.

Frankie Robinson, 6-1 Junior, had the hot hand for the Panthers putting 26 big points through the hoop. Backing him up in the double-figure column were Archie Boyd and Ernest McFarren with 17 and 16 points respectively.

The second game saw Pemiscot County slowly give way to Delta C-7's style of play during the last half. The score remained close in the first and second periods and it looked as if the third seeded Chargers had a battle on their hands. By the half, Delta C-7 had a 31-30 edge.

Third quarter action remained close as both teams had brief moments of holding the lead, but it was the Chargers who came up with it to end the period, 46-40. The final quarter blasted Pemiscot County off the court as Delta C-7 poured in 27 big markers to their 14 to run off with an expected win.

Four of the Charger players chalked up double- figure scoring. Two juniors, Tom Mead and Robert Stark, had the high scoring honors with 20 and 18 markers respectively. Carey Guyton followed with 15 points and Dwight Blankenship helped out with 12. David Madden was top scorer for Pemiscot County with 21 points. He was backed up by Charles McGauhey with 12 markers and Ruben Smith with 10.

Second round action gets under way tonight at 6:30 with Risco going up against New Madrid and host North Pemiscot facing Gideon.

Oklahoma ranks no. one

AP Sports Writer

Led by No. 1-ranked Oklahoma, the eight top teams in The Associated Press college football ratings held onto their positions today.

Oklahoma, which took over the top spot from Ohio State a week ago, trounced Kansas 45-14 and received 45 first-place votes and 1,198 of a possible 1,-220 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama remained second by defeating Miami, Fla. 28-7. The Crimson Tide received nine first-place ballots and 1,078 points. Michigan crushed Purdue 51-0 and pulled down eight first-place votes and 1,040 points.

Then came Ohio State, a 35-10 winner over Iowa; Notre Dame, which edged Pitt 14-10; Nebraska, which routed Kansas State 35-7; Auburn, a 17-13 victor over Georgia; Southern California, which drubbed Washington 42-11; Texas A&M, a 37-7 winner over Rice, and Penn State, which downed Ohio U. 35-16.

Texas A&M and Penn State moved up one spot apiece when Florida, which was ninth last week, lost to Kentucky 41-24 and plummeted to 20th.

The Second Ten consists of Maryland, Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State, Michigan State, Houston, Baylor, Texas, Pitt, California and Florida.

Last week's Second Ten was Penn State, Miami, Maryland, Houston, Michigan State, N.C. State, Pitt, Oklahoma State, California and Texas Tech.

Oklahoma State dropped out following a 37-20 loss to Colorado and Texas Tech fell from the Top Twenty after a 17-10 loss to Baylor. That triumph lifted Baylor into the Top Twenty for the first time since the 1963 season. Texas, which dropped out last week, climbed back in by routing Texas Christian 81-16.

Plunkett, Patriots hit the skids

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Jim Plunkett, who did little wrong in leading the New England Patriots to five consecutive victories at the start of the National Football League season, is a confused young man these days.

Now he can't seem to do much right as the Patriots have hit the skids with three defeats in a row and four in the last five games.

The star quarterback appeared on the verge of stardom only a few weeks ago. Now he completes almost as many passes to opponents as he does to his teammates.

He has been intercepted 13 times in the last five games. He threw four interceptions last week in a 21-14 loss to the Cleveland Browns and then was intercepted four more times Sunday in a 21-16 upset by the New York Jets.

"It hurts," Plunkett said in the wake of the Jets' loss. "It's tough, it's humiliating. I pulled a hamstring in the third period, but that wasn't any reason. There are no excuses. Pressing? I don't know, but I'm very aware of everything. Yes, maybe I am pressing some. I don't know.

"After the Cleveland game, I thought all week about what happened. Then the same things happen, the interceptions."

"He's having a little slump — take the word little away, it's just a slump," New England Coach Chuck Fairbanks said. "There's a fine line between success and failure for a passer. Jim needs to have a little success.

"He is not our problem. A lot of our receiving corps is not what we had the first half of the season, so he's not being helped there." Plunkett had several passes dropped by intended receivers against the Jets, but what hurt the most was rookie Roscoe Word's interception in the end zone after the Patriots had moved to a first down at the New York five with two minutes to play.

"Sure, Jim's made some mistakes, hell, we all have," said 10-year veteran Tom Neville, an offensive tackle. "He's still in the learning stage. I'm still in the learning stage. The coaching staff is in its second year and we're in a new system. Jim is cool in the huddle and his play calling is according to the game plan. We'll break out of it."

More than wounded pride was hurting Monday as the Patriots held their usual practice. Star fullback Sam Cunningham and wide receivers Reggie Rucker and Steve Schubert were placed on the injured reserve list, finished for the season.

Cunningham, who fractured the fibula in his lower right leg as he banged 18 yards to the New York five at the two-minute warning, is the team's leading round-gainer and scorer. Rucker is the team's leading receiver and Schubert, a rookie, has been outstanding on the special teams.

"Injuries are part of football," Fairbanks said philosophically. "If a team is deep, it has a better hance of overcoming the loss of players. This club does not have that over-all depth and quality, so the loss of certain players really hurts."

Bootheel Sports Beat

Well, I knew there would be a lot of good teams and some excellent balance in the area this season in basketball but I must admit that I'm surprised at some of the scores of the games played already.

For example, how about Matthews beating Risco Friday night and Scott Central downing Advance; Matthews was supposed to be weak offensively this season but Risco found out that you must play little defense to win ball games.

Advance looked like anything but championship caliber against Scott Central but maybe the Braves defense had a lot to do with that. Maybe Carroll has taught little brother Ronnie too much in the past few years.

Scott Central is going to be tough to beat this year. They have enough height and possess more speed and quickness that most of their opponents and I wouldn't be surprised to see them in the first round of the state tournament at Bloomfield in March against perhaps the Advance Hornets. Wouldn't that be a real matchup. Advance will smooth out the rough edges before too long.

At any rate there are going to be some good ball games this winter.

This week's schedule is headed by the North Pemiscot Invitational tournament at Wardell. Lilbourn looks like the champ there. It should be a very exciting tournament with all the good teams this year.

Tuesday regular schedule is light with only two games of area interest playing. Bernie at Puxico and Oran at Delta.

Here are my predictions for the two games Tuesday and the schedule Friday.

Bernie at Puxico -- I mentioned before that Puxico didn't have any guards and Coach Pete Townsend seems to have been offended. I apologize for the statement if the Indians do have good guards. I didn't mean to downgrade the players. The Indians are 0-2 so far but they should pick up against the Mules. Puxico 75, Bernie 65.

Oran at Delta -- This should be a real ball game. Even on the same level of the Scott Central - Advance game Friday night. Oran has improved along with Delta. The Bobcats just barely got by Puxico last week. Both teams are a running shooting type teams. I'll strictly offer a guess on this one. Delta 80, Oran 79.

Friday: Oran at Advance --- Another good game in the making. Advance has the material and if they can get it all together. Oran doesn't have the press defense that Scott Central has so I pick the Hornets --- 70-65.

Notre Dame at Kelly --- Coach Nick Lanpher seems to think that the Hawks are as good as last year's team so this might be the the test. Notre Dame graduated a lot of people so I will pick Kelly --- 75-68.

Scott Central at Parma --- This another class A barnburner. Scott Central's defense will give the Pirates fits all night. The Braves 75, Parma 69.

Woodland at Meadow Heights --- Meadow Heights has my nod, 70-60.

Senath - Hornersville at Holcomb --- I don't know much about either of these two so I'll take a chance on Holcomb, 60-55.

Bell City at Bloomfield --- The Wildcats are too tough for the Cubs --- 77-60. Cooter at Campbell --- The Camels will win easily ---75-50.

Viburnum at Arcadia - Valley --- Arcadia Valley will romp 80-60.

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 19, the 323rd day of 1974. There are 42 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg Address.

On this date:

In 1497, the navigator, Vasco da Gama sailed through the passage to India around Africa's Cape of Good Hope.

In 1794, the United States and Britain signed the Jay Treaty, adjusting issues that had not been settled in the Revolutionary War.

In 1831, the 20th American president, James Garfield, was born on a farm near Mentor, Ohio.

In 1874, the National Women's Christian Temperance Union was organized in Cleveland, Ohio, to work for prohibition.

In 1919, the U.S. Senate rejected the World War I Treaty of Versailles.

In 1954, it was announced that the United States would build a radar warning network across arctic Canada.

Ten years ago: Premier Alexei Kosygin was reported to have told visiting U.S. businessmen the Soviet Union might be willing to make a token payments on it's wartime lendlease debt.

Five years ago: Apollo 12 astronauts Charles Conrad and Alan Bean achieved man's second landing on the moon.

One year ago: Prices on the New York stock market made their sharpest drop in more than eleven years as investors worried about the energy crisis.

Today's birthdays: India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is 57. Television personality Dick Cavett is 38.

Thought for today: There will never be a generation of free men until there has been a generation of free women — of free mothers. — Robert G. Ingersoll, American lawyer and statesman, 1833-1899

"WE'RE ON THE ENERGY TEAM!"

"Our whole company is saving energy. The Government has asked corporations to reduce energy consumption 15%, and is providing guidance and incentive awards. We're saving on heating and air conditioning with better insulation and more efficient systems. And that giant sign on the roof that used to burn all-night— we turn it off at 10:30 now."

"I'm helping increase the capacity of an oil refinery so we can help meet the increased demands for gasoline and other usable forms of energy."

There's a big gap between domestic refining capacity and domestic energy needs, a gap that must be closed. To do it, we have to expand existing refineries or build new ones, so that our refining capacity can handle the growing demand for energy.

It will take everyone's understanding and cooperation to get this expansion and new construction going.

Council votes to accept housing

CHAFFEE — The City Council Monday night unanimously passed a resolution accepting the proposal for a 50-unit public housing for the elderly project in conjunction with application for a grant from the federal government to provide a water and sewage system from Chaffee to Rockview.

In order to receive a grant from the government, the city has to meet certain minimum requirements, among them a comprehsensive housing plan. The proposal accepted Monday night calls for the 50 units to be constructed by private firms and then to have the tenants subsidized by the federal government.

The water and sewer grant is sought from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and if approved would provide 100 per cent of the cost of the water and sewage system from Chaffee to Rockview.

A new city planning commission was named to work in conjunction with different planning committees and coordinate community development.

Appointed were Cyril Eichorn, Liston Mitchell, Keith Moore, James Chronister, Carlos Crump, Raymond Rowell and Mayor Sally Wehmeyer.

James M. Stubbs was reappointed commissioner of the Chaffee housing authority.

The council approved a 10-cent per capita donation by the city to help pay for new ambulance equipment forthe ambulance the North Scott County Ambulance Service is scheduled to receive soon.

A new Board of Adjustments was set up Monday to act as an appeal board for anyone who makes application for a permit and is turned down. Those appointed include: Dwain Rains, Ronnie Whittaker and Richard Smiley.

The resignation of City Clerk Pat Andreozzi, effective Dec. 6, was accepted by the council.

Also accepted by the council were two building permits. D. R. Boulware made application for a $500 addition to his house at 115 Black St., and C. O. Neece made application for an addition to his house at the corner of Helen Avenue and Highway 77 in the amount of $4,500.

Train speed revised

SCOTT CITY — The City Council Monday night repealed the ordinance limiting train speeds in town to 10 miles per hour and approved an ordinance revising the speed limit to 50 miles per hour.

The action came after C. C. Mitchell, a special representative of the Cotton Belt Railroad, told city officials in a special meeting Monday morning, that if the city did not cooperate with the railroad on revising the speed limit for trains it should not expect cooperation from the railroad on the installation of flasher lights at crossings in the city.

At the special meeting Monday morning Gener Shackelford, railroad safety supervisor for the Missouri Public Service Commission, made the recommendation that the 10 mile per hour limit be abolished.

The 50 mile per hour limit is a compromise measure, council member Marvin Arnold said today. He added that the railroad wanted no limit, but that the the city preferred to have some limit in effect.

Mitchell said he expects the railroad to go along with the new limit and to cooperate with the city on the installation of flasher lights.

Plans call for the railroad to bear the full cost of installation of lights at the Daugherty Street crossing and 10 per cent of the cost at the Oak Street crossing. The city will pay for lights at the Louis Street crossing with aid from the Federal Safe Roads Program.

City Attorney Thomas Arnold will make applications for the lights at the three crossings to the Missouri Public Service Commission with the railroad and the Federal Safer Roads Program.

Shackelford told the council Monday night that it may take up to one year to install the lights, and that first public hearings on the topic will have to be conducted before the PSC can give their approval.

Plans are to close the two crossings at Delmar and Crites Streets after lights are installed at the other three crossings.

The City Council also authorized payment of $61,844 as the first payment on the construction of a pool-park complex by Sides Construction Co. of Cape Girardeau.

Preparation of traffic ordinance approved

NEW MADRID - The City Council Monday night approved the preparation of a traffic control ordinance and discussed other business.

At the recommendation of a committee, composed of Alderman Ed LaValle, Bill Boyd and City Marshal Virgil "Flid" Dees, named to study traffic control, a stop sign was approved for the Crisler and Mott street intersection to slow down traffic entering Mott Street from old Kingshighway.

An ordinance was ordered written for the stop sign.

The committee also found that speeding was occurring on Route U and recommended that the police department control the area and enforce the speed limit by issuing tickets.

In other matters, the council agreed to meet at 10 a.m. Thursday with Alex Waters of the Waters and Associates engineering firm of Sikeston for the discussion of street costs and construction in the northeast section of town.

Citizens in that area had objected to the proposed cost of over $8 per foot and the council is trying to find an alternate plan at a lower cost.

The council is also scheduled to discuss problems arising in the West Acres subdivision concerning failure of the contractor to install water and sewer connections for the lots at set out in the subdivision plan.

The council agreed after a meeting last Tuesday with representative of the law firm of Blanton, Blanton, Rice and Sickal of Sikeston to proceed with a suit against Associated Electric Cooperative Inc. in which the city is requesting a declaratory judgment for failure of the cooperative to deliver 10,000 kilowatts of electricity to the city as required by contracts. The suit seeks judgment of $1,000 per month from July 1, 1974, the first month the power should have been delivered.

Mayor Jim Cravens told the council possible construction money is available through federal sources for the construction of firm labor housing with a possible 75 per cent grant and the balance financed at one per cent interest. The council agreed to proceed with a request for a study of the need for the housing and to make application for the program.

The council briefly discussed the demolition ordinance requiring derelict buildings to either be torn down or repaired, and agreed to have the commisioners try to determine which buildings required action.

Chronister said the system will be arranged in such a way that the ambulance will be ready 24 hours per day.

The Chaffee General Hospital will be the base station where people can call for ambulance service.

Two drivers have already been hired at $100 per month. By the time the ambulance arrives, 30 volunteers will be state-qualified to be drivers and attendants, Chronister said.

Salaries for the drivers and attendants is expected to come from the intake of the ambulance service. The County Court has set a rate of $30 per call inside Sccott County, plus 50 cents per mile for every mile outside the county.

tial real estate loans and the degree of competition among lenders.

The Senate bill, to be handled by Democrats Jack Gant of Independence and Albert Spradling of Cape Girardeau, is similar to Sikes' proposal except that 10 per cent interest can be charged on non-real estate and corporation loans between $2,500 and $5,000.

Under Sikes' bill, no more than 10 per cent can be charged for unpaid principle between $500 and $5,000.

Both bills set a punishment of up to $500 for violation of the law.

Both bills retain the small loan rate of 2.218 Per cent interest per month on loans up to $500. But the Senate bill sets a 1.25 Per cent per month additional interest on the unpaid balance over $500 and less than $2,500.

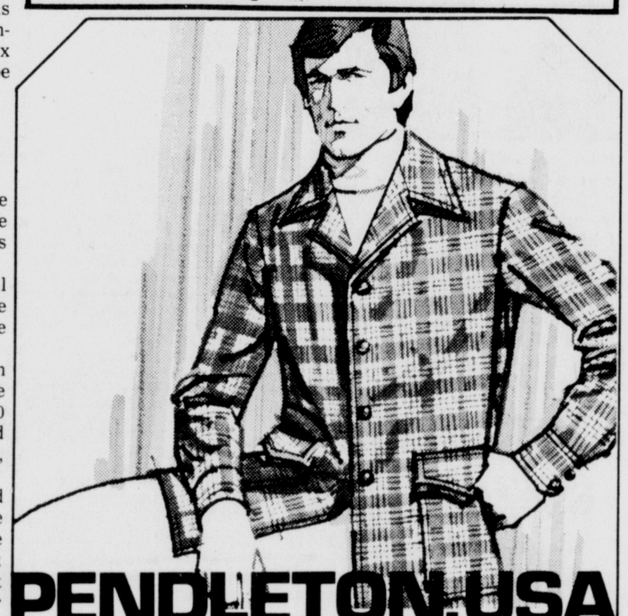

A spokesman for the Missouri Consumer Finance Association says the small lending institutions will go out of business unless they can charge more than 8 per cent for loans over $500, which they are prevented from doing now.

Both bills remove the interest limit on loans to refinance mortgages. The Senate bill also classifies mobile homes as real estate. Both bills classify as residential real estate a dwelling unit with not more than four families and say no more than one point can be charged on sales of such homes.

Higher points apparently could be charged on loans to build apartment buildings. The lender also could charge fees to cover "bona fide" expenses in negotiating the loan, such as a title search.

Both bills have an emergency clause, which would put the law into effect when the governor signs it.
